"But truths on which depends our

That 'tis our shame and misery not

With such a lustre he that runs may

If you would like to feel your

Beating faster observe Miss Tulsa—
There's not a guy who would repulse her.

Miss Washington, without her dress is Still amply clad in long, blonde tresses.
'Tis sad that so much charm and grace
Should have to do with second place.

Of tresses like the raven's wing,
We sing,
And to the brunette's shrine we bring,
By jing!
Incense to burn in offering.

The bobbed-haired bandit cute may be and fair—
Here's to the girl who can sit on her hair!

How loudly sounds poor Ophaw, squawking full and clear.
("The sucker's moan is music to the gambler's ear.")

With Wheeler standing by, that Congress job's not much.
Willie in time may find he's only lost his crutch.

'Tis stirring news the cables tell—
Fraulein embraces Mademoiselle!
Solved are the problems that once vexed;
There'll be no wars—until the next.

Our tennis stars their bays retain,
And end as they begin it;
The Davis cup is theirs again—
But what can they put in it?

We can't believe this tale at all:
Brookhart is suffering from gall!

Bang! Bang! Three bandits rob the mail,
And get away with stacks of kale.
How tame to sit 'midst all this strife
And read poor Jesse James' life.

Things at Geneva after all are not

New York welcomes a pair of

That town sure has a flair for

(As Mister Mark Twain wrote),
"Thou relic of a vanished time,"
(You surely get one's goat)
"When all your friends as fossils sleep
Immortalized in lime."

Some men made millionaires by bloody war,
Now have just what they used to have before.

"Riches, like insects, when concealed they lie,
Wait for but wings, and in their

Our rubber supply causes so many fusses,
Why can't we just get it from sightseeing buses?

Our "Merry Andrews" has some

Who kick at all the coin one spends
For bichloride of mercury gin,

With Omar's sane philosophy,
They'd worry what the Vintners buy.

The British lion's on the blink—
His tail's been twisted by a Chink!

Just where our interest did wane,
The Hall case intrigues us again;
The vestryman and choir-Jane—
What were they doing in the lane?

"Tattle-tale tit,
Your tongue shall be split,
And every little dog in town
Shall have a little bit."
Observe this crime and mark it down—
The punishment was fit.

The Klan parade can hardly fail
To boost cotton a dollar a bale.

A Frenchman swims across to Dover,
And now will look his contracts
over;
Our interest in this thing will slip
Till someone pulls off a round trip.

AMERICA CLINCHES DAVIS CUP; FRENCH BEATEN IN DOUBLES

Williams and Richards
Turn Back Cochet
and Brugnon.

FRANCE IS REPULSED IN 3 STRAIGHT SETS

Yankees' Offensive Offsets
Plucky Fight; Triumph Is Seventh Consecutive.

Philadelphia, Sept. 10 (By A. P.).—For the seventh successive year and tenth time in the history of the Davis Cup competition, America has exhibited her world's supremacy at tennis.

The defense of the historic trophy was settled today as decisively as it was begun when the American doubles combination of Richard N. Williams and Vincent Richards smashed their way to triumph over France's pair, Jacques Brugnon and Henri Cochet, in a sparkling three-set tussle, decided by scores of 6-4, 6-4, 6-2.

This was America's third straight victory over France, whose bright hopes, as the survivor of 24 original national challengers, have been blasted for the second year in a row. Coupled with the convincing triumphs of "Big Bill" Tilden over Jean Borotra and "Little Bill" Johnston over Rene Lacoste yesterday, today's decision gave America the three points necessary to settle the challenge round series on the courts of the Germantown Cricket club.

French Defense Crumbles.

Although their outcome can not affect the team result, the final two scheduled singles matches will be played tomorrow afternoon, starting at 2:30 p. m., with Johnston opposing Borotra and Tilden vs. Lacoste.

Plucky as was France's fight to stave off defeat today, it came to naught against the superior team play tactics volleying of the American combination. Cochet and Brugnon, attacking with sparkling dash, gained leads of 4 to 2 in each of the first two sets, but their defense crumbled each time as the Americans, with Williams leading the charge, unleashed attacks that overcame all obstacles.

The last set saw the Yankee offensive at its high-water mark, and the Frenchmen were brushed aside.

Her Tongue Cut Out For Too Much Gossip

Nice, France, Sept. 10 (By A. P.).—Mme. Jacquin, a Belgian, recently released from jail after serving a sentence for talking about her neighbors, staggered into the police station today bleeding from the mouth. Her tongue had been cut out.

Investigation promised to be difficult, as the victim neither reads nor writes. Police say she has made innumerable enemies.

2 Giant Dragon Lizards Arrive on Liner Aquitania

Descendants of Prehistoric Monsters, They Weigh 200 Pounds Each—Covered With Armor, They Have Forked Tongues, Spiked Tails.

New York, Sept. 10 (By A. P.).—Two giant lizards, survivors of the race of "fery dragons" of prehistoric times, arrived today on the Cunard liner Aquitania. Each is 8 feet long, weighs 200 pounds and has a body as thick as a man's, covered with a close protective armor.

The great saurians, long sought by zoologists, were captured by Douglas Burden, a trustee of the American Museum of Natural History, on the island of Komodo, in the Malay archipelago. They are in the care of Prof. E. R. Dunn, of Smith College.

The likeness of the "dragons" has been blazoned on the flag of China for 4,000 years. The big lizards have red, forked tongues, and sometimes make a loud hissing noise, like escaping steam, just as their "fire-breathing" ancestors did. Their legs are short and stubby and each foot has four claws. Their tails are spiked.

The discovery and capture of the two "dragons," which are entirely

2 ROBBERS IN MAIL CAR GET $137,000 PAY ROLL

Third Bandit, Waiting in an Auto, Rushes Men and Loot to Chicago.

AIRPLANE SEARCH IN VAIN

Chicago, Sept. 10 (By A. P.).—Two robbers held at bay two mail clerks, seized $137,000 in pay roll money on a Grand Trunk train at the southwestern edge of Chicago and raced back into the city in a waiting automobile.

All of the loot was contained in a single mail pouch carrying $47,000 from the First National Bank of Chicago and $90,000 from the Continental & Commercial National Bank, both consigned to banks at Harvey, a suburb, for the pay roll of three firms. At least $150,000 in another pouch was overlooked.

Timing their work with the train schedule, the two robbers who entered the car got off at Evergreen Park and ran to a third member of the gang waiting in an automobile. They disappeared by driving through a cemetery.

Investigators could find but one or two witnesses. The robbers were away before the train had come to a full stop, and although the clerks at once gave the alarm it was too late.

Deputy Sheriff Francis J. Caraher, of Palos, nearby, owner of an airplane, was notified and immediately rose in the air for a search of the surrounding territory, without avail.

The mail car was in charge of John Kelly, a veteran clerk. As it left Chicago Lawn station two men wearing amber-colored glasses, entered the mail car. Kelly jumped for the bell cord, to be halted by the words:

"Pull that rope and I'll kill you."
While one intruder shoved Kelly and his assistant, Robert A. McCook, into the corner of the car, the other began kicking through the stack of mail pouches.

Edward Johnson, a flagman, entered the car, and the robber on guard immediately jerked an empty pouch over his head. Before the second station stop, Kelly said, the two packages containing the $137,000 were tossed from the car.

Robert Adams, towerman at Evergreen Park, said he saw a car

SPAIN QUILTS LEAGUE AS GERMANS ENTER; MADRID SENDS NOTE

Government Firm, Says
Statement, in Ending Cooperation.

GLASSES ARE RAISED BY FORMER ENEMIES

Almost Delirious Joy Vented
as Briand Welcomes Dr.
Stresemann.

Madrid, Sept. 10 (By A. P.).—Although a note containing Spain's resignation from the League of Nations is to be delivered in Geneva is made in a semi-official statement issued here tonight. The statement reads:

"The League of Nations is about to receive a note from the Spanish government. The document was sent from Madrid to Geneva by Foreign Minister Yanguas y Messia, and it expressed the gratitude of the Spanish government for the attention shown by the league to Spain and for the solicitation made to Spain to continue cooperation, but it is firm in saying that Spain is resigning."

Note Delayed for Berlin.

Geneva, Sept. 10 (By A. P.).—The French delegation to the league of nations announced tonight that it had received information from Paris that the Spanish note of resignation from the league has left Madrid.

The French understand that the Spanish held up the letter of resignation because they did not wish to embarrass the entry of Germany into the league.

Faith that loyal cooperation will keep Europe far from war and safe in the paths of permanent peace and happiness continued tonight to be the dominating note of this memorable day when Germany was received into the League of Nations with the applause of thousands.

Dr. Stresemann, the German representative, in a striking address before the assembly, had prayed that the destiny of the League of Nations be fulfilled on the basis of its lofty conception of peace, freedom and unity. And former Minister Briand in moving language pledged the support of France to policies that would thrust war aside forever.

Disarmament Is Topic.

The one outstanding feature of the day was the rather gingerly manner with which both Stresemann and Briand approached the problem of disarmament, giving the impression that both statesmen realized that this is the most difficult problem of all confronting Europe.

Dr. Stresemann counseled "tactment, while M. Briand virtually said in achieving disarmament, notice that Europe could not shake off its heavy burden of armaments until equilibrium was restored both economically and morally, and until people were convinced of their security.

Tonight the statesmen of various nations are conferring how best to treat problems still outstanding which might prove to be possible menaces to complete accord. Dr. Stresemann told newspapermen at a banquet in honor of the council, at which he clinked glasses with

Smoot Renominated By Utah Convention

Salt Lake City, Utah, Sept. 10 (By A. P.).—Reed Smoot, senior United States senator from Utah, was renominated by acclamation at the Republican State convention here today. The platform adopted endorsed the stand of Senator Smoot on foreign debts, declaring for absolute fairness to the nation's war debtors and insisting that the debts thus far agreed upon must be paid.

Ingersoll Daughter To Become Dancer

Newark, N. J., Sept. 10 (By A. P.).—The Star-Eagle today announced that Miss Anne Ingersoll, youngest daughter of Charles H. Ingersoll, watch manufacturer, had become a professional dancer, and would make her first appearance at a Deal Lake resort.

Her partner, according to the announcement, is Basil Durant, star of a dozen night clubs. After completing the season at the Jersey shore, the two will fill engagements in New York and Florida. Miss Ingersoll is 19.

GIRL WITNESS IS TAKEN TO HALL MURDER SCENE

Both She and Vestryman Say
They Met None of the Defendants in Lane.

Special to The Washington Post.

Somerville, N. J., Sept. 10.—Katherine Rastall, choir-girl friend of Ralph Gorsline, church vestryman, was taken over the scene of the Hall-Mills murders near New Brunswick, today while Justice Charles W. Parker at Somerville was presiding at the drawing of a panel of 35 names from which a grand jury of 23 will be chosen September 21 to pass on the evidence against the slain rector's widow, Mrs. Frances Stevens Hall, and her two kinsmen, Willie Stevens and Henry de la Bruyere Carpenter.

It was the New England conscience of Jacob Van Pelt, New Brunswick garage owner, that impelled him to write to the authorities and that led to the long police grilling that broke down the stories of Gorsline and Miss Rastall had stuck to for four years. Van Pelt told the authorities Gorsline had said to him confidentially that the story of Mrs. Jane Gibson, so-called "pig woman" and the State's star witness, was true. Van Pelt's account goes much farther than Gorsline's admissions to Inspector John J. Underwood, it is said by the police.

All that the vestryman and Miss Rastall admitted was that they were in De Russey's lane the night of September 14, 1922, when the Rev. Edward W. Hall and Mrs. Eleanor Mills were slain.

According to Van Pelt, Gorsline said he met a member of Mrs. Hall's family in the lane on that occasion and asked him what he was doing there.

"The statements of Gorsline and Katherine Rastall," said Underwood, "corroborate Mrs. Gibson as to the time the shots were fired."

SPAIN VOTES TODAY ON DICTATOR'S ACTS

Plebiscite Also Is Plea for National Assembly, Says
Primo de Rivera.

Madrid, Sept. 10 (By A. P.).—No politics must enter nor partisanship influence the national referendum to be held Saturday, Sunday and Monday, says an official statement issued apparently in reply to published statements alleging that the people would incur persecution if they did not vote in favor of the dictatorship.

"Everybody may sign as he sees fit and those abstaining will not be taken to task for it," says the statement.

Gen. Primo de Rivera, speaking to the Associated Press, said:

"The referendum also will be a plea to the government to set up a permanent national assembly in which shall be represented all classes of the population from all sections of the country for the purpose of collaborating in the continuation of the great work initiated by the military dictatorship and continued by the present government over which I have the honor to preside."

Schoolhouse Missing; Found on a Farm

Pueblo, Colo., Sept. 10 (By A. P.).—The dream of every American schoolboy—that on the first day of school he would find the schoolhouse gone—has been fulfilled for a dozen pupils at Sileom school, 30 miles south of here.

The schoolhouse hadn't burned. It had vanished. After an hour of searching, a conscientious teacher found it on the farm of A. J. Price with the following sign attached: "Private property. No trespassing." Price moved the building because of some controversy within the ranks of the school board, of which he is a member.

PRIEST QUILTS POST; BLAMES KLAN ISSUE

Can Not Serve Under Senator Means, Indorsed by the Ku Klux Klan, He Says.

Special to The Washington Post.

Norfolk, Va., Sept. 10 (By A. P.).—The Rt. Rev. Mgr. John P. Chidwick, who was chaplain on the battleship Maine when it was blown up in Havana harbor, has resigned as chaplain of the New York department, United Spanish War Veterans, according to notice received today by Claud N. Markham, of Portsmouth, national vice commander in chief of the organization. The priest also has given up membership in the organization.

The withdrawal of Chaplain Chidwick is the result of the election at the annual encampment of the last month of Senator Rice W. Means, of Colorado, as national commander in chief. It was announced, Mgr. Chidwick, in his letter of resignation, says he has been advised that Senator Means was indorsed by the Ku Klux Klan, and that "as a Catholic priest I could not serve under a klanism."

Mr. Markham said today he did not know whether Senator Means was a klanism. He said he believed the convention which elected the Colorado man gave little or no attention to the klan question.

The government also intends to show that the claims submitted by Merton and which it is alleged were given to King in New York and taken by him to Miller's office, were "rushed through the alien property custodian's office in less than 72 hours." This, Buckner alleged, was a much shorter time than that required for the payment of other claims.

Tetrazinni's Wedding Reported Arranged

(Special Cable Dispatch)

Luisa Tetrazinni, noted opera singer, with a handsome young 32-year-old Roman, Pietro Vernati, will take place October 10, probably at Florence, the correspondent learns today. Sig. Vernati is not prominent in Rome, but is the son of a small haberdasher in Tassolonia. The romance has taken the musical world here by complete surprise.

SWISS CLAIM VALID, KEY WITNESS HOLDS IN DAUGHERTY TRIAL

Merton Tells Jurors of $7,000,000 Paid at Champagne Dinner.

$441,000 GIVEN KING AS HIS COMMISSION

Amount, German Admits. Was Double Sum Agreed On;
Williams Accused.

New York, Sept. 10 (By A. P.).—Although bound for only half that sum under his agreement with the late John T. King, Richard Merton, German metal magnate, testified today he had paid a "commission" of $441,000 for the Connecticut politician's services in obtaining the release of $7,000,000 by the United States government.

This testimony and the statement that a champagne dinner celebrated the transfer of the checks featured Merton's second day as star witness in the trial of Harry M. Daugherty, once Attorney General of the United States, and Col. Thomas W. Miller, former alien property custodian, on charges of conspiracy to defraud the government.

As related by Merton, he agreed to pay 5 per cent of the transferred funds if received before August 15, 1921, and 2 1/2 per cent, if the transaction was completed after that date. The government has set the transfer as taking place on September 30.

Merton testified that he paid King, a former Republican committeeman from Connecticut, the $441,000. District Attorney Buckner said he intended to show that the alleged bribes were shared by Daugherty, Miller, King and the late Jess Smith, of Washington Court House, Ohio, described as Daugherty's "Man Friday."

Believes Claim Valid.

William Rand counsel for Miller, pled Merton with questions in cross-examination in an effort to show that the claims Merton made for restitution of nearly $7,000,000 of stocks of the American Metal Co., which had been seized during the war as enemy property, were valid and just claims.

Under the searching cross-examination of Rand, Merton testified that he believed at the time he made the claims, and that he believes now, that the claims were valid. He said every statement he made in papers filed with the Alien Property Custodian was true and that there was no intent to defraud the government or to evade the terms of the enemy trading act under which the stocks were seized.

Speed, Merton testified was the governing factor in the payments of the $441,000 to King.

The alleged bribes, Merton said, were paid at different times. Before the claims were paid he gave King a check for $50,000. After the claims were paid he gave him $391,000 in liberty loan bonds. He did not know what was done with the check or the bonds, his last sight of King being that of the former Republican committeeman getting into a taxicab with the bundle of bonds under his arm.

Paid Original Sum.

The $391,000 Merton said, was paid King under an agreement made prior to the granting of his claims. This agreement was to the effect that if the claims were paid prior to August 15, 1921, 5 per cent of the sums paid were to be given King for hastening consummation of the deal. If the claims were paid after August 15, but before September 15, 2 1/2 per cent of the total was to be the fee. Merton admitted that although the money was not paid until September 30 he paid on the 5 per cent basis. Buckner said the government purposes to show that this money was traced to the bank and brokerage accounts of Daugherty, Miller, Smith and King.

The government also intends to show that the claims submitted by Merton and which it is alleged were given to King in New York and taken by him to Miller's office, were "rushed through the alien property custodian's office in less than 72 hours." This, Buckner alleged, was a much shorter time than that required for the payment of other claims.

The actual payment of the $4,453,979.97 was made at a champagne dinner in the Ritz-Carlton hotel, Merton told the jury. Miller, King and Smith were present. He had a special room for the Appeal to Commissioners to Block Move at the New McKinley Building.

MOLLER SUPPORTED
IN REVOKING PERMIT

Ask Agreement on Removal of Market; Two Police Privates Dismissed.

The District commissioners, at their semi-weekly meeting yesterday heard protests from a committee of Eckington citizens against erection of the heating plant of the new McKinley Technical High school at Second and T streets northeast.

Consolidation of the plant with that of the Langley Junior High school in the center of the grounds occupied by both schools was urged, to prevent smoke from an additional stack and to minimize the carting of fuel through nearby streets.

The commissioners took the matter under advisement. Lieut. Col. J. Franklin Bell, engineer commissioner, saying that reconsideration of the disposition of the grounds should be had any way, because of the proposal of the National Capital park and planning commission that a swimming pool be located on the school grounds.

Gideon A. Lyon headed the committee of citizens. Those who joined him in the protest were William G. Henderson, George E. Tew, Robert H. Alcorn, William R. Sheehan and William D. Krinking.

Uphold Permit Suspension.

The commissioners upheld Assistant Traffic Director I. C. Moller in suspension of the automobile driving permit of Ninian Beal 3404 Dent place northwest. Beal was accused of driving in the wrong direction in a one-way street, collision with another automobile, leaving after colliding and driving under the influence of liquor. He was arrested on the two latter charges, but has not yet been tried.

Corporation Counsel Francis H. Stephens recommended that his permit be reinstated in view of the fact that his record is otherwise unblemished.

A letter was ordered sent to Assistant Secretary of the Treasury D. S. Dewey, reducing to writing the understanding between the Treasury Department and the commissioners as to removal of the western half of the farmers' market by January 1, to make way for beginning of operations in erection of the proposed internal revenue building.

Police Privates Walter Bauer and Burrell C. Tapley were dismissed for absence from duty without permission.

A contract was awarded to the Central Armature Works for repair and alteration of the wiring on Anacostia bridge for $1,573.56.

Child Shot by Chum Playing With Pistol

While playing with a .22-caliber blank cartridge pistol at Third street and Pennsylvania avenue northwest yesterday, James Brown, colored, 12 years old, 1142 New Jersey avenue northwest, was seriously injured when shot through the abdomen by William Brown, colored, 13 years old, 14 N street northwest.

Taken first to the Homeopathic hospital, then to Emergency, the boy was operated on in an attempt to save his life. William Brown, who is no relation to the injured boy, is being held at the Second precinct, awaiting the outcome of the other's injury. According to police, the two were playing with a pistol of the type used as a starting gun in athletic contests.

Girl, 15, Despondent And Ill, Takes Poison

Miss Vivian Smith, 15 years old, 1424 K street southeast, drank a small quantity of poison at her home last night, police report. She was taken to Casualty hospital in a serious condition. Physicians, however, said they believed she would recover. Miss Smith told Dr. Clyde Cantrill, who treated her, that she drank the poison because "nobody loved her and nobody cared for her."

Police who inquired at the girl's home reported that she had been ill for a short time and had become despondent and that her parents believed she attempted to end her life because of her illness. A half-ounce bottle, almost empty, was taken to the Fifth precinct station and is being held by police.

BROOKS BURIAL MARKED WITH IMPRESSIVE RITES

Services at Church Attended by Frank B. Stearns, Representing Coolidge.

MANY FLORAL TRIBUTES

Lieut. Col. Arthur Brooks, former colored White House custodian and valet, was buried yesterday from St. Mary's Protestant Episcopal church, the Rev. O. L. Mitchell, rector, and the Rev. Thomas J. Brown, of St. Luke's parish, officiating. Attending the funeral, as personal representative of the President, was Frank B. Stearns, who came from Paul Smiths, N. Y., especially to be present. A large number of White House employees and officials were also in attendance.

Under command of Capt. Arthur C. Newman, a Company, District of Columbia national guard, accompanied the funeral procession to Harmony cemetery, where a detachment of the 372d Infantry fired three volleys in salute to the former major of the guard. There was also present a detachment of High School cadets and former cadet officers.

Floral tributes were in profusion, including remembrances from the President, from Chief Justice William H. Taft, from Mr. Stearns, Rear Admiral Cary T. Grayson, John Hays Hammond, Edward B. McLean, the White House employees, the recorder of deeds office, the national guard and red cap porters. The American flag which covered the casket was the property of Capt. George A. Robinson, of Philadelphia, a lifelong friend of Col. Brooks. It commemorated an event in their lives of more than a quarter of a century ago. Mrs. Lillian Evans, whose father, the late Bruce Evans, was a lifelong friend of Col. Brooks, sang.

Telegrams to the wife of Col. Brooks were read from Chief Justice Taft, Elihu Root, Rudolph Forster, White House, executive secretary; Assistant Chief Clerk Randolph, and from "The Boys" at Paul Smiths.

The honorary pallbearers were Dr. Emanuel J. Scott, Dr. C. Samuel Wormley, Dr. T. Edward Jones, Judge James A. Cobb, Dr. E. C. Terry and Garnet C. Wilkinson. Southern Sunday Laws Will Be Given Test

Test cases to determine the legality of existing Sunday laws will be instituted in a number of Southern States by the Association Opposed to Blue Laws, according to a bulletin issued by the association yesterday.

The first of these contests will take place in Portsmouth, Va., according to the bulletin, where a Sunday baseball game will be played in the next few weeks, although forbidden by law. Marx Lewis, attorney for the association, has just returned from a three-week trip through Virginia, North Carolina, South Carolina, Georgia and Florida.

KLANSMEN ARRIVE FOR BIG CONVENTION BEGINNING MONDAY

Automobiles Bearing Greeting of "Klgy" Forerunners of Vast Crowd Expected.

KLONVOCATION TO BE AT NEW AUDITORIUM

Meeting Will Be Biennial of National Order; Parade to Mark First Day.

Klansmen from throughout the country are expected to come here Monday for a great testimonial gathering. Despite the assertions of Klan officials that the meeting is being sponsored solely by the local organization, it is learned that it is the regular biennial convention or klonvocation of the hooded order, called and sponsored by the national headquarters. For that reason a greater crowd is expected than was mustered for the purely demonstrative gathering last year.

There will be no election of officials, passing of resolutions or other business, however. Imperial Wizard Hiram W. Evans was re-elected several months ago for a four-year term. He was elected at the meeting of grand dragons, held in Chicago. All grand dragons, or heads of State organizations, are appointed by him.

At this meeting, too, the organization's program was formulated. As a matter of fact, it had been formulated at a previous meeting of the klonvocation, composed of members of the Imperial Wizard staff. It was the business of the dragons, mostly, to ratify it.

Eligibles for Meeting.

In addition to the grand dragons, the heads of local organizations, called excited cypriotes, a number of delegates from each organization are eligible to attend the biennial meetings, such as is to be held here for three days, beginning Monday. Aside from these accredited delegates there will be thousands of members from throughout the East here to take part in the parade, or open sessions of the gathering. For that matter they will be welcomed to the "secret" sessions in the auditorium. Also eligible to attend the convention proper are the heads of "provincial" klans. They were formerly called klages, but some time ago this designation was abolished. A provincial klansman is one that has not been granted a charter. The Washington order, headed by L. A. Mueller, is in this class.

The entire initiation fee of a member of a provisional klans goes to the national headquarters, the local order retaining nothing. Of this $10 fee the representative gets $2.50 for getting the member. He serves as the head of the provisional klans.

Disposition of Fees.

There is no prescribed number of members which a provisional klans must have before it is given a charter. Apparently it is at the pleasure of headquarters. When it becomes a chartered organization it retains $7.50 of the $10 initiation fee, remitting $2.50 to the national order. There are quarterly fees, too, for the member of the chartered order, varying generally about $1.50, of which the national order receives 70 cents and the local order 80 cents.

Members are charged $5 apiece for the robes which are made by the klans which in Atlanta, Ga. All this has to do with the first degree of the order. There are others. The vanguard of visiting klansmen has already begun to arrive, those in automobiles displaying the familiar greeting "Klgy." Railroad officials conferred yesterday on a program for handling the expected heavy travel. No estimate of the number of special trains has yet been made. Reduced rates are being given from a number of places.

Parade on Monday.

The first day of the meeting will be featured by a parade over the same route as that held last year. Klan officials, it is known, have urged as large an attendance as possible, and the meeting is not to be limited by any means to "accredited delegates."

The gathering will be minus some 1,400 members from Cumberland, Md., however, who last year came down in a rally decorated special train of fourteen cars. This order has broken with the national organization in the last several weeks, and there is a fight on in the courts now for the possession of klans property there.

Dr. Stanley to Read Paper Before Bakers

Dr. Louise Stanley, director of the department of home economics of the United States Department of Agriculture, will read a paper before members of the American Bakers association at their twenty-ninth annual convention in Atlantic City September 19 to 24.

The nutritive value of wheat will be the subject of Dr. Stanley's discussion. Others who will speak include Senator Royal S. Copeland, of New York, and Bainbridge Colby, former Secretary of State.

Man Held for Auto Theft.

Accused of stealing an automobile from Robert W. Knapp, 1410 Euclid street northwest, in June, William A. Miller, 26 years old, of the Hudson hotel, was arrested yesterday by Headquarters Detective Frank Allgood. After taking the automobile Miller drove to Philadelphia, and from there to Atlanta, Ga., where he sold the car for $500. Allgood said. He is being held at the First precinct station.

Dr. Mann Returning With Rare Animals

Dr. William M. Mann, director of the National Zoological park, is on his way home with 200 cages of animals that include many rare and individual specimens. It was announced yesterday. Among the beasts are the giraffe promised to Washington children, hyenas, a pangolin or scaly ant-eater, a giant civet cat, some rare wildcats, two scores or more of monkeys, a number of antelopes and three leopards.

The news of Dr. Mann's successful completion of his African expedition was received here with expressions of delight from Smithsonian officials and keepers at the zoo. Just when Dr. Mann will arrive depends on how long he must wait at Colombo, Ceylon, and whether the steamer is a fast or slow one.

Former Capital Girl's Husband Is Shot Dead

Special to The Washington Post.

New York, Sept. 10.—Joseph G. Herbert, of 1247 Prospect place, Brooklyn, an engineer, was shot and killed in Schenectady avenue, about a block from his home, late tonight when Salvatore Gamboni, a man who had stolen $85 from his cash register and then run from his drug store at 139 Schenectady avenue. Gamboni told the police that he thought Herbert was one of the thugs, but the police believe he was a burglar, excited and firing blindly, killed the wrong man.

In the crowd which gathered after the shooting was Herbert's wife, Mrs. Jean Cabell O'Neil Herbert, formerly of Washington, D. C., who had been waiting for her husband to come home and ran to the corner when she heard the roar of the shotgun.

SUSPECT IN MURDER HELD IN ALEXANDRIA

Man, Fined for Abuse, Is Accused of Having Shot Maryland Policeman.

Arrested on a charge of using abusive language, Pleasant Brown, colored, is being held for the police of Havre de Grace, Md., in connection with the shooting to death of Policeman John Pinkernagel, October 6, 1923, at Swan Creek, Harford county, Md.

Brown, who has been living at 318 North Lee street, was arrested Thursday by Policemen Padgett and McCleary, on a charge of having used abusive language, charged by a fellow roomer. On being arraigned in police court this charge was dismissed, the court costs of $3 being assessed against Brown, and he was remanded to jail in default of payment for further investigation, it having been stated by Brown's roommate that Brown had boasted of having shot the Maryland policeman.

Police Capt. Campbell communicated with the Maryland police by wire and received a telegram yesterday from William Padgett, chief of police of Havre de Grace, stating that Brown was wanted there on a murder charge, and that an officer would be sent here for him.

ARLINGTON-FAIRFAX CARNIVAL IS OPENED

Grounds in Falls Church Are Ablaze With Lights for Firemen's Event.

Despite the inclement weather of today and the annual carnival and convention of the Arlington-Fairfax Volunteer Firemen's association opened last night at Falls Church, with more than 700 persons attending.

The grounds, located on the Lee highway, and ablaze with hundreds of colored electric lights, were crowded with more than 20 booths decorated and filled with articles of choice of firemen, who worked late with the people crowding around trying their luck to win a prize to help support the fire departments.

In addition to taking care of the dining room, the women assisted in the decorations.

Eight loving cups will be awarded at the grounds today at the conclusion of the parade.

The parade will start from Potomac, passing through Virginia Highlands, Arlington, Ballston, Clarendon, Lyon Village, Cherrydale and returning to the grounds. The judges will view the parade as it passes through Lyon Village.

The carnival would be continued through Monday night.

LUNATIC ESCAPES COURT AS FREEDOM IS ARGUED

Dangerous Patient Walks Out
During Hearing; Police
Search City.

THREATENED OFFICIALS

Patrick J. Crowe, said by hospital officials to be one of the most dangerous lunatics at St. Elizabeths hospital, escaped from the courtroom of Justice Hitz, of the District Supreme Court, yesterday afternoon while waiting for a double hearing. Police headquarters issued a general lookout for him.

Warrants charging assault and carrying a concealed weapon were sworn out in police court immediately after his escape, and a general search of the city made for Crowe by police and headquarters detectives, who were informed he might attempt to take the life of War Department officials.

In August, 1924, Crowe made threats against the life of the late Secretary of War Weeks, according to hospital officials. He was arrested in the corridors of the War Department, and when searched a pistol was discovered in his clothes. He recently assaulted patients at the hospital, officials said.

Crowe was released on a writ of habeas corpus sued out several weeks ago, because his commitment to the War Department was discovered to be illegal. He was arrested in the corridor of the courthouse immediately after leaving the hearing then, police say, and recommitted to St. Elizabeths, awaiting a hearing before a jury to test his mental condition.

Another writ of habeas corpus was sued out several days ago and a woman relative from New York took the court. If he was released, she would take Crowe back to her home.

Justice Hitz then expressed the opinion that he would sign an order freeing the man on condition that he be taken to New York. Assistant United States Attorney O'Leary objected to this, however, and the writ was not signed.

When the case was called yesterday afternoon Crowe, it was discovered, had left the court. His escape remained unnoticed until the case was called.

Hospital officials and police did not arrive at any conclusion as to who was responsible for Crowe's escape. The hospital authorities say they turned Crowe over to the police. The police say that when Judge Hitz expressed the opinion that he would release the man they left the court.

SPAIN QUITS LEAGUE AS GERMANY ENTERS

Briand, Vandervelde and Chamberlain, that all must bear in mind that every day is not a Sunday or holiday and that "day" efforts are necessary to make peace secure.

Wounds Must Be Healed.

Dr. Stresemann said that nothing in M. Briand's speech before the assembly had touched him more than the assertion that the peoples who had shown such heroism on the battlefield should now seek other and constructive outlets for their energy.

Mr. Chamberlain, warning against excessive optimism, told the German journalists tonight not to forget that the path ahead is long, for suspicions must be allayed and wounds of the past more fully healed.

Three Outstanding Events.

Three things stood out dramatically. The first was Dr. Stresemann's picture of present-day Germany as gripped only by lofty ideals, determined to dedicate her energies henceforth to international cooperation based on a high intellectual and moral plane.

The second feature was the remarkable oration of M. Briand, whose declaration that Germany and France have had enough glory in the past and need no further demonstration of heroism, and whose proclamation that the roar of guns had now been silenced, evoked tumultuous applause.

The third outstanding incident was the scene of almost religious jubilation throughout the vast auditorium, when Sir George Foster, of Canada, arose, as M. Briand was resuming his speech, and, waving the union jack, called for three cheers for France's eminent leader. Instantly, every man and woman in the hall stood and joined in the uproar of applause which lasted several minutes and which seemed a spontaneous expression of joy that the two principal protagonists in the great war had sworn henceforth to abandon the use of arms and seek solution of all their difficulties in the peaceful atmosphere of the League of Nations.

brunettes, one is bobbed and one unshorn.

Miss Smallwood best withstood the scrutiny of keen eyes and perfect stage lights at the private judging this morning. She has been variously described as a blonde and as a brunette. Her light blue eyes and her very fair skin, contrasting strangely with her wealth of brown hair, a chestnut color, difficult to classify between dark and light, giving rise to this problem.

Apartment Thief Escapes.

After ransacking the apartment of Mrs. A. N. Kilmartin, 1437 Spring road northwest, yesterday afternoon a colored man escaped by leaping from a first-floor window. Mrs. Grace M. Parr, manager of the apartment house, saw the man leap from the window, and her cries caused him to drop a bag containing clothes stolen from Mrs. Kilmartin's apartment, police said.

ANDREWS SAYS FRIENDS PROTEST LIQUOR PRICES

Charge Quality Also Poor;
Cites Complaints as Boost
for Dry Activity.

TWO FORMULAS DROPPED

Complaints from whisky drinkers of the high price of "good" liquor are an indication of success in prohibition enforcement, Brig. Gen. Lincoln C. Andrews, chief of the prohibition unit, said yesterday. Many of his friends, he added, have been "growing" about the quality of liquor now obtainable and the high price they have to pay for it. Some of these complaints have come from residents of New York city, he said.

Reports from the Canadian border indicate there has been a lessening of smuggling into the United States and the additional patrol recently sent to watch the border has been exceedingly active, Gen. Andrews said. There are also reports of improvement in the situation in Florida and along the gulf, where smuggling from Cuba has been active.

An order issued by Gen. Andrews yesterday to proprietors of industrial alcohol plants is expected to cut deeply into the operations of bootleggers in converting denatured alcohol into whisky. The order directs the immediate discontinuance of formulas No. 3 and No. 4 in the process of rendering the alcohol unfit for beverage purposes. These formulas are composed principally of nitrobenzol and benzol and have been the easiest for the bootleggers to overcome in reaturating the alcohol. By discontinuing the use of these formulas the prohibition unit believes a large source of supply of alcohol to the bootleggers will be cut off.

Gen. Andrews had the order sent by telegram to all distillers in order that it might become immediately effective. Hereafter the newer formulas, which contain chemicals not easily removed from the alcohol, will be used in all the manufacturing and denaturing plants.

A program for the conference of prohibition administrators from all over the country, which will begin its sessions here Monday, September 20, is being now mapped out by Gen. Andrews. It will consist largely of an exchange of ideas and experiences in a "round-table" session, followed by agreement upon general tactics to be followed in making enforcement of the law more rigid.

Secretary Mellon will be back before the conference opens, but is not expected to attend the meetings, although it is probable he will be consulted on any changes in the policy of enforcement which the conference may agree upon.

The administrators have been notified to come to Washington prepared to stay a week as it is not known how much time will be needed to discuss all the questions involved in the problem of enforcement.

Woman Has Fortune Told; Misses $17

Shortly after two gypsy women had departed from her home after telling her fortune, Mrs. Rosie Butler, 124 Alabama avenue southeast, discovered that she had lost $17. The money was pinned inside his wife's dress, Joseph Butler told police, and she believed the fortune tellers had stolen it.

The women were riding in an automobile bearing New Jersey license tags, police were told. The women stopped the car in front of Mrs. Butler's home and asked that they be allowed to tell her fortune. Mrs. Butler told police she could not understand how the women reached the money inside her dress.

Woman, Accusing Policeman, Faints

While under cross-examination in police court yesterday, Miss Halie Nuckols, 20 years old, of 733 Alabama avenue southeast, fainted and was carried from the courtroom. She was testifying against Policeman Raymond Whitfield, of the Sixth precinct, whom she has charged with seduction.

Whitfield was held in $1,000 bond for the grand jury by Judge Gus A. Schmidt. He was arrested last week at 322 Seaton place northeast, where he is living. The girl's testimony was corroborated by Mrs. H. L. Dull, wife of Policeman Dull, with whom she lived.

PRESIDENT'S PLANS FOR FARMERS' AID ARE NOT COMPLETE

Consideration Is Given the Problem, but No Bill Is Being Drafted.

PROPOSALS SUBMITTED
BY PUBLIC EVERY DAY

Return to Capital Is Likely to Be Made in Latter Part of Next Week.

Paul Smiths, N. Y., Sept. 10 (By A. P.).—Although President Coolidge is giving study and consideration to the question of putting forward some additional farm relief legislation at the next session of Congress, he has not reached the point of drafting a bill or giving any particular thought to any specific draft of a measure. Moreover he has not decided upon any special form of farm relief legislation.

A question is being given carefully by the President, it was said today at the summer White House, to proposals for agricultural legislation as they are received here and, it was added, scarcely a day passes that some plan is not received from organizations or individuals in the country.

The measure which W. I. Drummond, of Kansas City, Mo., chairman of the American Farm congress has presented, providing for governmental aid in disposing of basic surplus crops through farmers' co-operatives has received attention of the President, but there was no indication today that he had formed any definite opinion about it.

Sargent Goes to Belmont.

Attorney General Sargent, who has been a house guest at White Pine camp for several days, returned to Washington today to complete his vacation without the President conferring with him on any question involving alterations by legislation in the antitrust laws. Whether any conclusions have been reached concerning the appointment to the Federal Trade Commission that will be made to fill the vacancy caused by the expiration of the term of Houston Thompson, Democrat, Colorado, on September 20, has not been indicated.

The executive offices of the White House were closed here from 2 to 4 o'clock this afternoon in respect to the memory of Maj. Arthur Brooks, negro steward and valet at the White House, who died Tuesday in Washington and was buried today. The President sent a wreath.

Nineteen bibles were autographed by Mr. Coolidge today to be given to as many young persons who have recently joined the First Presbyterian church at Saranac Lake, where the President and Mrs. Coolidge have worshipped this summer. Some will go to those who have become members of the church in the presence of the President.

The President and Mrs. Coolidge are expected to attend services at the church for the last time this summer on Sunday, as they will probably return to Washington late next week.

GREEK RIOTING BLAMED ON REPUBLIC'S ENEMIES

Royalists and Communists Are Accused by Kondylis of Causing Fights.

OFFICERS TO FACE TRIAL

Athens, Greece, Sept. 10 (By A. P.).—Premier Kondylis today declared the mob scenes in Athens following yesterday's murder by the republican guards were caused by royalists and a few royalists wishing to take advantage of the situation and cause the overthrow of the republic.

The government has arrested ten royalist leaders and participants. The number of dead is placed at 14 and the injured at 170, but some of the newspapers say the casualties were larger.

Cols. Zervas and Dertilis, who commanded the mutinous guards, were taken to the arsenal secretly last night.

The revolt was scheduled for today, the government says, but the authorities, having advance information, nullified the scheme by quick action.

At 8 o'clock Thursday Premier Kondylis and his government had mastered the mutinous situation. The mutineers had surrendered and the republican guard was definitely dissolved. The men are being sent to different islands in the Aegean sea, but the officers will be promptly court-martialed.

Probably the main reason for the trouble was that officers of the guard had been plotting for the escape of former Premier Pangalos and thus preventing his trial for treason, which they feared might reveal evidence incriminating them.

MRS. CORSON HOME; NEW CHANNEL MARK SET BY FRENCHMAN

Woman Swimmer in Tears as Crowds Welcome Her Back to New York.

BAKER OF BOULOGNE
HAILED AS CHAMPION

Georges Michel Is Challenged by Ederle for a Race Next Year.

New York, Sept. 10 (By A. P.).—Mrs. Clemington Corson, the first mother to breast the waves of the English channel, returned to her adopted city today with her arms around her two children, aged 2 and 4, and received a rousing welcome.

Through the rounds of ceremonies she smiled behind tears, for her thoughts turned back to the day seven years ago when as Mille Gade she came to America from Denmark and earned a living as swimming instructor.

She frankly admitted that she hoped her efforts in conquering the channel would bring her money in order that her children might have things she had been denied. And her hope will be fulfilled, for already she has stage and other contracts that will net her a quarter of a million dollars. In addition, she found a newly furnished home awaiting her, the gift of a merchant.

Husband in Background.
The modest, quiet spoken woman was not prepared for the welcome that Father Knickerbocker gave her.

Nor was her husband, who had followed her on her historic swim with a rowboat and came back with her on the Aquitania. He radiated his pride, but kept in the background.

When the Aquitania arrived at Quarantine today the gaily decorated city tug Macon, with the mayor's reception committee on board, gave her an official welcome.

When the Macon reached the Battery thousands of persons were waiting. Harbor craft tied down their whistles as she neared shore. Smiling she looked through the port holes—not for the welcoming crowds, but for her children.

Soon she saw them held high on the arms of relatives, waving their hands at her. Then her eyes filled with tears and she buried her tanned face in a bouquet of American Beauty roses sent by Mayor Walker.

Michel Sets a Record.
Boulogne, France, Sept. 10 (By A. P.).—Georges Michel, French baker, whose avocation is swimming, returned from England to night to fight himself famous.

Leaving Cape Gris-Nez at 5:25 last night Michel thrashed the billows with such effect that 11 hours and 5 minutes later, at 7:31 o'clock this morning, he clambered ashore over the slippery rocks at St. Margarets bay, near Deal.

He had broken the record established scarcely two weeks before by Ernest Vierkotter, of Cologne, Germany, by 1 hour and 38 minutes.

He also found that the 15,000 or so francs he had spent in making his ten channel swims—he failed nine times before he succeeded—were likely to prove bread thrown on the water.

Scores of telegrams awaited him, offering real money for appearances in France, England and various continental countries.

The citizens of Boulogne will give a ball in his honor next Tuesday, the receipts to be turned over to him.

Michel expects to return in a few days to his little bakery shop in a Paris suburb which is being conducted in his absence by his wife. When he gets home he will decide which of the many offers for exhibitions to accept.

GOING TO CHINA

Prince George, youngest son of the King of England, who, as a lieutenant in the royal navy, is speeding to China, where three British naval officers and three sailors were killed recently in engagements with the Chinese.

Today Miss Ederle, who is giving swimming exhibitions at the Sesqui-centennial exposition, sent a cablegram of congratulations to the Frenchman, who today broke the channel swimming record. It read: "Congratulations on your great swim. Hope we can both race across the channel next year."

Miss Ederle also sent a "welcome home" message to Mrs. Clemington Corson, the first mother to swim the English channel.

"Welcome home," said the telegram. "Am sorry engagement here in Philadelphia prevents meeting you personally. Good luck."

Cape Gris-Nez, France, Sept. 10 (By A. P.).—Louis Timson, of Boston, started to swim the English channel at 10:05 o'clock. He had been awaiting favorable conditions for some time. An attempt he planned for last Friday night had to be postponed on account of fog.

Catalina Channel Is Swum By 16 in Relays as a Test
Avalon, Catalina Island, Calif., Sept. 10 (By A. P.).—The first re-

lay swim across the Catalina Island channel was completed at 11:20 a. m. today. Wally O'Connor swam the final 200 yards, completing the relay, in which fourteen men and two women participated. Total time for the swim was 23 hours and 33 minutes. The swimmers covered 27.6 miles.

The swim was made to test conditions for the contestants for the $25,000 prize offered by William Wrigley, jr., to the first person negotiating the channel.

BRITISH WARSHIP IS HIT BY CHINESE ARTILLERY

Fourteen Foreign Fighting Craft Now at Hankow; U. S. Leads With Four.

HUGE CIVIL WAR FEARED

(Special Cable Dispatch.)
Peking, Sept. 10.—Fourteen foreign warships are at Hankow, with others above and below the city on the Yangtze river. America is in the lead with five, the Pope, Stewart, Palos, El Cano and Pigeon.

The British Gnat and Bee, four Japanese ships and two French also are on the scene. The other warships, above and below Hankow, all are awaiting orders to deal with the offending Cantonese.

The Pope and Stewart were under severe rifle fire east of Hankow, while the British Bee suffered damage from field artillery, replying effectively with quick firing, then withdrawing as the ship's guns were outmanned.

All observers agree that China is on the verge of the greatest civil war since the republic was formed, with extreme caution being required to prevent foreign complications. The nationals above Hankow have been urged to evacuate.

(Copyright, 1926, by the Chicago Tribune.)
London, Sept. 10.—Unconfirmed news received in London tonight from Peking states that Chinese troops also fired on the British gunboat Bee, one of the vessels of the Yangtze flotilla.

Tonight's war office orders announcing the movements of troops in the Far and Near East include the dispatching of the second battalion of the King's Own Scottish Borderers for Hongkong. The war office informed the correspondents, however, that these movements have nothing to do with the trouble in China, but are the usual troop movements at this period of the year.

It is understood that the East Surrey regiment, which has been under orders to proceed from Hongkong to India next month, has been held back in Hongkong.

lay swim across the Catalina Island channel was completed at 11:20 a. m. today. Wally O'Connor swam the final 200 yards, completing the relay, in which fourteen men and two women participated. Total time for the swim was 23 hours and 33 minutes. The swimmers covered 27.6 miles.

The swim was made to test conditions for the contestants for the $25,000 prize offered by William Wrigley, jr., to the first person negotiating the channel.

WANTED

5 CENTS PER DOLLAR OF RECEIPTS PROFIT TO CORPORATIONS

400,000 Concerns Gained
$6,000,000,000 on Business of $120,000,000,000.

TWO-FIFTHS OF NATION'S FIRMS REGISTERED LOSS

Banking and Insurance Led,
With Gain of 16 Cents Per Dollar of Income.

By WILLIAM P. HELM, Jr.

Five cents or a trifle more out of every dollar of receipts probably will represent profit to the nation's corporations on the record-breaking business of 1926. Such was the proportion during the similar year of 1923 when the volume of business set its new high mark which since has been eclipsed. In round figures, the 400,000 corporations had gross receipts of $120,000,000,000 that year and cleared somewhat more than $6,000,000,000.

The figures include all corporations, two-fifths of which operated at a loss. Their losses, totaling more than $2,000,000,000, have been deducted, for the purpose of the computation, from the $8,300,000,000 in net profits accumulated by the successful concerns. Losses of unsuccessful corporations averaged about nine cents on every dollar taken in; profits of the successful companies amounted to about 17 cents out of every $2 in receipts.

Among the successful corporations, however, there was a considerable range in profits. In banking, insurance and related lines, nearly 16 cents out of every dollar of gross receipts, not bank deposits but income were listed as net profit recorded.

Next came the manufacturers of building and crushed stone, brick, tile, terra cotta, glass and clay products. This relatively small group of somewhat more than 4,000 corporations, all told, reported gross receipts of about $1,250,000,000 and net profits of nearly $185,000,000, or approximately 15 cents out of every dollar.

The situation in 1923 with respect to these companies, however, was abnormal as the demand for building materials at the time was greater in some lines than the supply. Since then, supply in virtually every line has exceeded demand and prices have fallen. Profits will not be so large, proportionally, this year as they were three years ago.

Iron and steel producers and manufacturers of metal products, including automobiles, which were grouped under a single heading by the internal revenue bureau, cleared a net profit of about 9 cents out of every dollar of gross receipts, the figures show, somewhat higher than the average for all successful corporations. In view of the better tone of business in their lines this year, it is regarded as probable that their percentage of profit will be higher in 1926.

Merchant Profits Low.

Corporations in wholesale and retail trade made lower profits on their big turnover than in almost any other line, less than 5 cents out of every dollar representing net income. Transportation companies and public utilities, taken as a whole, retained as net profits about 10 cents out of every dollar of gross receipts. The successful companies made net profits of somewhat more, 13 per cent on their gross receipts, on the average, while the non-profitable corporations in those lines lost $125,000,000 on business totaling $1,250,000,000.

Successful mining corporations made about 10 cents as net profit out of every dollar in gross receipts, but the combined profits of the successful companies was more than offset by the losses of the unsuccessful companies. Three corporations out of every four engaged in mining and quarrying lost money during that year of general prosperity in other lines, so that the entire industry wound up 1923 with a net loss of more than $50,000,000.

Conditions in the realm of mining are generally considered better this year than in 1923, so the industry as a whole probably will write down a profit on its ledger for 1926.

Rubber Above Normal.

Manufacturers of furniture and other wood products, including lumber, and corporations which operated sawmills and planing mills, made somewhat more than average profits on their gross receipts, taking them as a whole. About 11 cents out of every dollar taken in, on the average, remained in their possession as net profits during 1923. In 1926 conditions are not regarded as favorable to so large a percentage of net profits in those lines of enterprise.

Makers of automobile tires and other rubber goods record 1923 as the year before the windfall. The record shows that they made a skimpy 5-cent piece out of every dollar they took in for their product. However, rubber prices were down in the doldrums then. The following year they jumped to extravagant heights and much higher profits were reported. During 1926 profits in the rubber industry are somewhat better than normal, but it is thought they will not reach the record proportions of the previous year.

Somewhat more than 9,000 corporations were engaged in printing and publishing in 1923, the record shows, and of the number one-third lost money to the extent of more than $23,600,000. The 6,000 successful corporations in the field reported net profits totaling nearly $186,000,000—a return of about $1.25,000,000—a return of somewhat more than 8 per cent on the gross turnover.

Gun and Ammunition Output Decreases

(By the Associated Press.)
Despite what has been heralded as a nation-wide "crime wave," there would seem to be less shooting in the United States now than there was two years ago.

The Department of Commerce reported yesterday that the manufacture of firearms in 1925 was valued at 14.1 per cent less than that of 1923, while the 1925 production of ammunition and related products showed a decline of 19 per cent from the 1923 figures.

(By the Associated Press.)

AMPLE WATER TO FLOAT SHIP, NAVY CHIEF SAYS

Lexington, Already Launched,
Expected to Easily Navigate
Channel to Boston.

ENGINEERS CLEAR STREAM

No unlooked-for difficulties are anticipated by the Navy Department on the part of the Fore River Shipbuilding Co. in delivering the aircraft carrier Lexington to the Boston navy yard, according to a statement yesterday by Acting Secretary of the Navy Robinson.

Referring to reports that it might not be possible to deliver the Lexington without congressional action, due to lack of water in the channel after leaving the Quincy (Mass.) shipyard, Secretary Robinson's statement showed that difficulties of launching the giant vessel were overcome, the Lexington being launched October 3, 1925.

The draft of the Lexington when it leaves the shipyard, it was explained, will be 28 feet or less. With 31 to 33 feet of water in the channel, there will be ample water for the ship. It was announced by the Navy Department that there is only one place where the channel has a depth of 31 feet, and that is near the start, where there will be ample water to float the ship. The remainder of the channel is from 33 to 34 feet deep, it was stated.

Army engineers are under instruction to keep the channel dredged to a certain depth and silt which may have filled any part of it will be removed from time to time.

The ship will be in the hands of the contractors until delivery to the navy at Boston.

AMPHIBIAN AIRPLANE NOW STANDARD TYPE

Army Has Adopted Model That Will Make Flight to South America.

The Loening amphibian airplane, known to the army as the COA-1, meaning "Corps Observation Amphibian," has become an object of interest since it was chosen as the type to be used in the army's proposed South American flight.

A plane of this type was completed in June, 1924, flown in a test in New York harbor shortly after, and accepted as a standard type by the army. One of its principal features is the use of the Liberty engine in an inverted position, this giving the pilot a greater field of vision.

The Liberty engine used is capable of producing 420 horsepower at 1,700 revolutions per minute.

Another unique feature of the plane is its ability to alight on either land or water. When preparing to alight on water, the wheels and landing gear, used on land flights, are folded in the fuselage by an electric motor.

The COA-1 has an overall span of 45 feet; its length is 34 feet 7 inches and its height 12 feet. When fully loaded the plane weighs 5,000 pounds and carries a crew of two. Its speed at sea level is about 118 miles an hour, and its cruising endurance, with a normal supply of gasoline and oil, is about four hours.

FACE DISFIGURED WITH PIMPLES AND BLACKHEADS

Druggist proves a friend in need

Kalispell, Mont., March 1:—"Two years ago my face was an awful sight. The skin broke out with pimples and blackheads and itched all the time. I washed it frequently and applied various salves, but they helped little. One day I asked a druggist for a good cure for my case, and that night I took home a small jar of Resinol Ointment. Every morning and night I washed my face and applied the ointment, rubbing it in good. After a few treatments I noticed the pimples were starting to decrease and in two or three weeks they were practically gone. I was so well pleased with the results that I now keep Resinol on hand and recommend it whenever I can." (Signed) Elkin E. Berry, 1028 Third Ave. West.

ANTISALOON LEAGUE HAS SPENT $2,500; DEMOCRATS $19,287

Reports of Campaign Expenses Made for Quarter
Ended Yesterday.

DRYS REFUSE $1,320
FROM CORPORATIONS

Contrary to Law, Treasurer
Says—Democratic Women
Are Given $4,000.

(By the Associated Press.)

The Antisaloon league spent $2,500, and the Democratic national committee paid out $19,287.

287.51 in political campaigns during the quarter ended yesterday, in reports filed with the clerk of the House.

The league spent its money in New York, Pennsylvania, Ohio and Illinois. Allen Sutherland, of Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, campaign committee treasurer, was sent $500 on July 23, and an additional $500 on September 8. On the latter date $500 was sent Fred Victor, New York campaign committee treasurer, and $500 each to Ohio and Illinois committee treasurers.

In making the report, Andrew Wilson, league treasurer, said he had returned checks totaling $1,320 from corporations which are not allowed to contribute under the law. These included one for $1,250 from an incorporated church.

Contributors to League.
Other league contributions included $950 from E. E. Olcott, New York; Seth Sears, Cambridge, Mass., $150; Olin C. Smith, Stanford university, California, $200; John J. Stanley, New York, $200; and Alfred T. Stanley, New York, $100. The balance on hand was given as $5,057.95.

The Illinois Antisaloon league reported collections of $424 and expenditures of $80; the Pennsylvania league expenditures of $339.25 and receipts of $947, and the Indiana league no receipts or disbursements in excess of $100.

The Democratic committee report, made by James W. Gerard, showed no payments against its $261,999 obligation standing since May 29.

During the last quarter the New York Democratic headquarters has spent $9,694.20 and the Washington headquarters, $9,593.31. The former received $12,617.74 in contributions and the latter $10,739.12, leaving a total balance on hand for the two headquarters, with an addition of the balances on hand June 1 of $10,490.66.

Of the expenditures, $4,000 went to the Women's National Democratic club and contributions showed $5,000 from William Church Osborn, of New York, and $6,000 from Norman H. Davis, former Undersecretary of State.

Noted Swimmer Dies in Dive.

Budapest, Sept. 10 (By A. P.).—Franz Illed, holder of many Hungarian swimming records, failed to come to the surface after a fancy dive at a swimming and diving meet yesterday. His body was recovered eight hours after he made the dive. The belief is that he suffered a heart attack.

TRANSATLANTIC PLANE ENDS TRIP FROM CAPITAL

Fonck Ship Is Viewed by Crowds Here Prior to Paris Flight.

INSPECTED BY OFFICIALS

Minneapolis, N. Y., Sept. 10 (By A. P.).—Capt. Rene Fonck, French ace, landed at Roosevelt field at 6:05 o'clock (New York time) this evening on his return flight from Washington in the Sikorsky plane, in which he plans to make a New York to Paris flight. Capt. Fonck left Washington at 2:45 o'clock this afternoon, with thirteen others in the plane, two of them, Commander and Mrs. Paul Cassard, being guests.

Igo Sikorsky, designer and builder of the plane, announced that Capt. Fonck will attempt next week to establish an official world's record for altitude and speed with maximum useful load in the Sikorsky plane.

The altitude flight will be the only important one the plane will make before it takes off for its transatlantic hop. It was announced, and the plane's total load will be about 20,000 pounds. The exact date for the altitude and speed record attempt has not been decided upon.

Three more gas tanks, giving an added gasoline capacity of 250 gallons, will be installed in the fuselage tomorrow. It had been planned originally to make the altitude and speed flight at Washington, but the attempt was postponed because of lack of time. The flight will be under the jurisdiction of officials of the National Aeronautic association.

While the plane was just south of Philadelphia, the radio operator aboard, who had been sending messages to various stations, booked New York hotel reservations for Commander and Mrs. Cassard by wireless direct to the hotel. This was the first time the "New York-Paris" wireless equipment had been used for commercial purposes.

Wireless messages were sent also to Mitchell and Bolling fields and to the naval air station at Anacostia, Washington, D. C.

The big plane was also in touch with other wireless stations as it followed a short flight over this city and down the Potomac river to Alexandria, the Sikorsky plane left the Anacostia naval air station yesterday afternoon at 2:45 o'clock for Roosevelt field.

Members of the French embassy were aboard the huge plane as it flew over the city. Assistant Secretary of War Davison, in charge of aviation; Assistant Secretary McCracken, in charge of Commerce Department aviation, and Assistant Secretary of the Navy Robinson inspected the plane yesterday, the latter after his arrival from Philadelphia in a navy plane piloted by Lieut. F. H. Conant, winner of the acrobatic flying contest at the Philadelphia air races.

Norris to Campaign In Pennsylvania Race

Omaha, Nebr., Sept. 10 (By A. P.).—Declaring he hoped to be able to "rouse the people of Pennsylvania to their chance to rid themselves of corruption," Senator George N. Norris, Republican, of Nebraska, today definitely announced he would campaign in that State this fall in behalf of William B. Wilson, Democrat, for senator.

IT IS interesting to note that AMOCO-GAS, which was the First and Original Special Motor Fuel, was also the first to have many special advantages—and without any of the disadvantages of its imitators.

AMOCO-GAS was the first—

- to give increased mileage
- to overcome carbon trouble and motor knocking
- to give increased power
- to give increased flexibility in driving
- to reduce operating expense and save the motor
- to give increased facility in starting
- to avoid crank-case dilution

And no imitation does all these things that AMOCO-GAS will do, nor does any of them as well.

ALLEGANY COUNTY IS BITTERLY SOUGHT BY WELLER AND HILL

Candidates for Senate Also Waging Intense Fight for Frederick's Vote.

REPRESENTATIVE AIDED BY DEMOCRATIC BANKER

Has 500 Workers in His Employ; Holtzman Strong Factor in Senator's Fight.

By CARLISLE BARGERON. Cumberland, Md., Sept. 10.—The Weller and Hill forces are waging a fight, in Allegany and Frederick counties surpassed in intensity only by that in Baltimore city. Allegany has seven votes in the nomination convention and Frederick has six.

If Hill has a barely susceptible edge in Allegany county, Weller has it in Frederick. It seems to be mostly a toss-up in either county.

The other counties in the Sixth congressional district, Montgomery, Washington and Garrett, with a total convention vote of sixteen, appear to be safely in the Weller column, as also do Harford and Baltimore counties, with twelve votes, and in the congressional district now held by Representative Tylings, Democrat.

Money Expected to Talk.

Money, furnished, made available or directed by the Weller-Lowndes, is talking for Hill in Allegany county. The question is only whether it will speak loud enough. A perfectly good Democrat, ordinarily, is in charge of the Hill fight here. He is Alexander a banker, banker, mine owner and identified with most of the county's other interests. Mainly, he is closely identified with Lowndes, and that is why he, a Democrat, is handling Hill's campaign.

Five hundred is a conservative estimate of the number of workers he has in his employ, and they are working. They are coming the mines, not doing very much now, but with an abundance of votes for the candidate who can get them.

Admirers of Annan assert that there is no doubt but that he holds the vote of the county, outside the city of Cumberland, in his vest pocket. That, in fact, is a favorite expression of theirs. It is not contended for him that he carries the city vote around in his pocket, too, but the country outvotes the city. For one thing, Annan has a bank at Frostburg, a runner up of Cumberland for city honors of the county.

Holtzman for Weller. As against this rosate picture for the Hill forces is the activity of Charles A. Holtzman, a factor in Allegany county politics since time immemorial, now back from Baltimore, where he is collector of the port, to handle the Weller campaign. Holtzman, covering the county as a man of only his political ability can, has not the funds at his command which Annan has. In his favor, however, is the fact that the county was looked upon as Weller's inherently at the outset, and it was for the Hill group to come in and make the fight. The result will measure the extent of their success.

The bulk of the county organization, too, is with Weller, but in a fight so close the organization has a way of making itself exceedingly quiet, but maybe doing good work beneath the noise that is all for Hill. By the same token, when the members of the organization are not out and openly working it is a very easy, certainly a less embarrassing, matter for them to switch.

Both Are for Zihlman. Strangely enough, both the Weller and Hill forces are working for Representative Frederick N. Zihlman against his opponent, George Louis Eppler. It is both Zihlman's and Eppler's home county, but as matters have shaped up, Zihlman is not getting the fight where he had been expected.

Rather, his fight has come in Frederick county, where Reno S. Harp is conducting a fight for Hill and Eppler. Harp carried the county two years ago against Zihlman for Thomas L. Dawson, of Montgomery county, which would seem to speak well for his ability to deal with Harry Haller, who is the registered manager of Weller's State-wide campaign, but who lives in Frederick county. Probably Charles McMathias, banker, is more of a factor for Weller in Frederick county, however, than is Haller.

Mathias and Harp Rivals. Weller and Zihlman supporters, seeking to discount the comparative significance of Harp carrying the county for Dawson two years ago, assert that he is not handling as good a line this time, and that there might be something in that. As between him and Mathias, he is considered to be a better vote getter, when it comes to those votes which must be gone out and got.

Mathias is a social, as well as a business leader and Harp is a great one to go after those votes waiting to be solicited. Weller leaders are counting strongly, however, and with good reason, on those votes long since determined and not to be influenced by the noise of the campaign. This may be said also of the Weller forces in Allegany county.

Nets for Bob-Haired Waitresses Advocated

Elizabeth, N. J., Sept. 10 (By A. P.).—At the instigation of Hugh Robertz, commissioner of health, William J. Richards, inspector, today began an investigation to determine whether waitresses with bobbed hair should be required to wear hair nets.

Robertz advocated a city ruling to that effect at last night's meeting of the health board.

He said he had seen waitresses shake their heads to dislodge bobbed hair hanging over their eyes and that such actions were likely to cause loose hair to fall in soup and other foods.

UPSHAW CHARGES WETS FOUGHT HIM WITH FUND

$100,000 Raised in Baltimore, New York and Jersey, Says Representative.

RECHECK IS DEMANDED

Atlanta, Ga., Sept. 10 (By A. P.).—Charging that "big liquor interests in Baltimore, New York and New Jersey had sent more than $100,000 in the district to defeat him, W. D. Upshaw, defeated in the Democratic primary Wednesday for renomination to Congress by L. J. Steele, said today he probably would ask a recheck of the votes in Campbell county before conceding defeat.

Campbell county's two votes went to make up the ten county units in Steele's column and thus gave him a majority and the nomination which is decided by county votes instead of by popular vote. "While I am not in a position at this time to name the contributors to the campaign sent here to defeat me," Mr. Upshaw said, "private investigations have revealed that there is indisputable evidence of more than $100,000 of liberal money having been sent into the district to defeat me.

"I suppose the wets throughout the nation are rejoicing today, but they can derive small comfort from my defeat as the man who defeated me has stated publicly on every stump in the district that he was a bone dry prohibitionist and against the weakening plan of modification of the eighteenth amendment," Mr. Upshaw declared.

Girl Bride Ordered To Home for Year

Kansas City, Mo., Sept. 10 (By A. P.).—A year in the interdenominational home must be passed by Mabel Cusley, 15, because she disobeyed her guardian and married Clifton Humphrey, 17. The sentence was passed on the girl bride today by Judge E. E. Porterfield in juvenile court.

The youth pleaded that the bride of two days be left with him and that he be given a chance to prove he could support her. The parents of young Humphrey also pleaded that the couple be left together.

GIRL WITNESS TAKEN TO MURDER SCENE

but neither will admit having seen any of the defendants.

Gorsline and the girl are at liberty, but will be subjected to a further grilling.

In drawing of the metal discs to choose a grand jury, No. 49 was the first out of the box. By it, Daniel Hoffman, a merchant of Griggstown, is designated as foreman, unless disqualified. One woman also was chosen. She is Mrs. Jane Joliffe, a housewife of Barnardville.

possible exception of Frederick county, it is believed he will carry all of the counties in his district.

Women and Dries for Weller. In both Frederick and Allegany counties Weller is expected to draw heavily of the women's and dry vote. Allegany is politically dry and so is Frederick, the latter overwhelmingly so. In Allegany county, there are a noisy lot of wets. The issue on the liquor question in Allegany is clear-cut as between Zihlman and Eppler, but not so between Weller and Hill.

Those voters who are dry above all other creeds, and to the exclusion of all others, however, have expressed a preference for Weller, because he is maintaining a reticence about his wetness. The Anti-saloon league has not indorsed Weller, but its Maryland superintendent, George W. Crabbe, has said that "there is a strong dry sentiment crystallizing for Weller," and he is doing nothing to prevent its crystallization. This may mean much if it may mean nothing, more likely the latter.

Hill Men Supporting Zihlman. There is a thought in the fact that wet Hill supporters in Allegany county are supporting dry Zihlman. In fact, they flatly throw Eppler down. The thought is that the politicians think nothing of the dry and wet issue beyond its public appeal.

Weller leaders in Allegany county profess not to be alarmed at the well stocked coffers of the Hill group. Money has not meant anything in past campaigns in that county, they assert, as it has not that kind of a vote. It is indisputably true, however, that paid workers have been known to be effective in other voting places of the county.

FRENCH ARMY CUT BY CABINET DECREE AS ECONOMY STEP

Plan Calls for Dropping of 2,700 Officers During Period of Years.

SKELETON REGIMENTS ARE REDUCED TO 28,000

Believed Here That if Order Makes Real Change It Will Aid Peace.

Paris, Sept. 10 (By A. P.).—While Foreign Ministers Briand and Stresemann at Geneva today were pledging France and Germany to policies of peace, a ministerial council in plenary session here issued a decree providing for reductions in the French army. There will be a gradual but important cutting down in the number of men, and many properties will be transferred from military to governmental control.

Other services of the government also felt the weight of Premier Poincare's plans for a nation-wide grand penitence to reduce the military. The interior administration will lose by the abolition of 106 subprefectures and 70 departmental secretariats.

Just how much the actual standing army will be reduced will remain problematical until the details of the reduction are worked out. Its general outlines the scheme provides for the reduction of the army by 2,700 permanent officers during a period of years and the elimination of 1,200 other officers.

Reduction in Ranks. The number of men called to the colors will be gradually reduced—first by calling men to service at the age of 21 instead of the present age of 20 and later by reducing the period of military training to one year.

The number of cadres, or skeleton regiments in the army organization will be reduced from the 1924 figure of 35,000 to 28,500. The cavalry establishment will be greatly diminished, and of barracks and military fields will be turned over to the general government holdings and the gendarmerie will be consolidated and reduced numerically.

Some profess to see international significance in the new army program, but it is generally considered that the reduction will be a gradual affair extending through several years and that the cutting down of the personnel will not be sufficient to make any great difference in the efficiency of the army for a long time.

Until more details are received it will be impossible for officials here to assess the real effect of the French army cut, but it goes without saying that any step toward disarmament would logically concern here as an encouraging sign.

Ever since the Washington naval arms conference, it has been the feeling here that the next step toward disarmament would logically concern here as an encouraging sign. Ever since the Washington naval arms conference, it has been the feeling here that the next step toward disarmament would logically concern here as an encouraging sign.

In one way a real cut in the French military establishment might have a direct effect in Washington. In the debate over the French debt settlement, which remains unrattified by the senate, there has been much criticism of French army expenditures. Open charges have been made in Congress that the Paris government would evade payment of a large part of what she owes here as to have more funds available for maintenance of the army.

Aid to Peace Policies. So far as the strictly European features of the question are concerned, it is the belief here that any effective army reduction by a first-class power would contribute toward a general practical application of the friendly policies enunciated in the treaties of Locarno.

Whether the French reduction proposal constitutes a significant move in that direction can only be determined, however, when it appears definitely whether the cut will be sufficient appreciably to affect the balance now maintained among the European nations.

On the basis of the information so far available, military authorities are not convinced that the reduction will be anything more than an economy move, which still would leave France with a military strength unequalled by any other single power.

With some 32,000 regular officers in its army, it is felt that France could easily afford to drop 2,700 from active service without impairing her military machine. The reduction proposed in enlisted personnel also would represent a small percentage, although exact figures are not available.

Should it develop that the decision of the French ministers represents the beginning of a progressive policy of retrenchment and that other and more significant cuts are to follow, the effect might be world-wide.

event he said, and after a while King made his appearance bringing two bottles of champagne. As with the other guests, he sat at a table he presented each with a gold cigarette case. Miller, he said, took from his pocket an envelope containing the checks.

As the dinner progressed, Merton said, Miller took from a coat pocket the two checks signed by Guy B. Goff, now senator from West Virginia, but at that time first assistant to the then Attorney General Daugherty. Miller handed him the checks, Merton said, it was explained that the receipts attached to them must be signed by an officer of the National City Bank, to which institution they were made payable. The National City Bank, he said, was attorney in fact for the Swiss bank, in turn financial agent for the Societe Suisse Pour Valeurs des Metaux, on whose part Merton had claimed the seized stocks of the American Metal Co.

Paid in Two Checks. The total of the two claims Merton made was $6,997,979.97. Of this sum, $6,453,979.97 was paid in the two checks Miller gave Merton, according to his testimony. The balance was transferred in Liberty loan bonds, which were sent by post to the National City Bank at New York. Prior to receipt of these bonds, Merton testified, he arranged with the National City Bank to have them transferred to the brokerage house of Goldman & Sachs, New York. In this, he said, he acted on Smith's assurance the claims would be paid.

Relating what happened after the dinner, the witness said: "I told Mr. King that I would not feel comfortable walking around with $7,000,000 worth of checks in my pocket and asked him to go to the bank with me the next morning. He came the next morning in a taxicab and we went to the National City Bank together.

After Merton had deposited the checks, he related, King went with him to Goldman & Sachs, New York, where he gave King $391,000 in Liberty loan bonds. Merton said he also made this arrangement on Smith's information that the claims would be paid in a day or so, but Merton contended that he believed the claims would come before "a judicial body" that would decide their validity.

Merton said that he borrowed $65,000 from an officer of the American Metal Co. deposited it in the Chase National Bank and on this account drew the $50,000 check he said he gave King. This fee, Merton testified, was "to stand" whether or not the claims were paid.

Cheaper Than Lawyer. Merton said he obtained the services of King because he thought it would be less expensive than hiring a lawyer.

Asked to explain the disappearance of $50,000 check, the witness said he gave King, the witness said, a custom he had at that time of returning cancelled checks to the men in whose favor they were drawn.

Answering the question of a juror, Merton said he did not receive any receipt for the bonds which he turned over to King. He admitted he did not ask for a receipt for the bonds which he turned over to King. He admitted he did not ask for a receipt for the bonds which he turned over to King.

Cross-examination of Merton was started by William Rand, counsel for Miller, after the witness had told of giving King the Liberty bonds.

Mr. Rand immediately took up the subject of the Societe Suisse Pour Valeurs des Metaux, which Merton had earlier testified was organized as a holding company of the two German companies which he held controlling interest in the American Metals Co.

Declares Statements True. "Is there," asked Mr. Rand, "any truth at all in the suggestion that the oral transfer of assets to this Swiss corporation in 1916, confirmed in writing in 1919, was not made at all, but was concocted after the passage of the American alien property laws?"

"There is no truth at all in that," answered Merton. The witness asserted that every statement made in the claim for the $7,000,000 was true.

After Merton had been under cross-examination only a short time, Judge Mack, who is presiding in the trial, ordered Merton to remain within the jurisdiction of the court so defense attorneys could question him again later if they wished.

When he took the stand at the beginning of his testimony, Merton told of his trip to Washington, where he discussed with Miller his proposal for the return of the $7,000,000 to the alien claimants.

Admits Faulty Memory. "Can you tell us what conversation you had with Mr. Miller when you first met him in New York?" asked United States District Attorney Buckner, who is personally handling the government's case in the trial.

"I'm afraid that I can't recollect that clearly," answered Merton. "I remember his telling me he had been a short time in office and did not know much about those things, but would put me in touch with the man who did when I came to Washington. As I recollect it we did not discuss the claim at all."

Merton said he had seen Miller in New York two or three times before he made his first trip to Washington. This was in the spring of 1921. The witness said he could not remember the dates on which he met Miller, explaining that the dates of five years had passed memory of them from his mind. Merton testified, incidentally, that he came to this country in 1907, and lived here for two years. He said he belonged to two or three exclusive clubs in this city.

First Trip to Capital. The testimony then shifted to Merton's first Washington trip and his interview with Miller.

"I went to Washington," the witness said, "and went to the office of the alien property custodian, Mr. Miller."

RUBBER PLANTATION METHODS UNLIKELY TO UNDERGO CHANGE

Operated on Correct Lines, Chemists Are Told in Briton's Paper.

U. S. DYE INDUSTRY IS INDEPENDENT OF WORLD

Lighter Autos and Increased Mileage Are Predicted by Prof Haslam.

Philadelphia, Sept. 10 (By A. P.).—Present methods of rubber cultivation as a whole are satisfactory, it was said in a paper by Henry P. Stevens, consultant of the British Rubber Growers Association of London, today at the concluding session of the two-day symposium on crude rubber held in connection with the American Chemical society convention.

Mr. Stevens was unable to attend the session and the paper was read by W. H. Cape, of New York. "No radical alterations are to be looked for in the production of plantation rubber in the future," he said. "As a whole the present methods are satisfactory. The product is good and the general principles are correct. The most to be expected is improvement in the details of preparation of sheet and greater conformity and freedom from molds, spots and other defects."

Two important facts brought out by the symposium in the opinion of chemists were the cultivation of the guayule shrub as a source of the present to produce a synthetic rubber suitable for commercial purposes. The meetings of the convention concluded today and this afternoon the delegates were taken on a boat trip on the Delaware river.

America virtually has made itself independent of the world in dyes, the American Chemical society was told today. W. E. Austin, New York industrialist, speaking before the dye division of the society, said 95 per cent of the dyed goods used in this country were home products and were equal to the best produced in Europe.

The food color industry in the United States also was declared on a firm basis in an address by M. C. Buehrle, of Brooklyn, N. Y. Cut off from German sources of supply during the world war, he said, the industry met the crisis and now could boast of a superior line of products of truly American manufacture.

Smokers need have no fear of the effects of chlorine in tobacco, declared F. B. Carpenter, chief chemist of the Virginia-Carolina Chemical Co., Richmond. Tests made, he said, had shown that while chlorine contains more chlorine than was generally supposed, it was seldom that the quantity was sufficient to do serious harm. The average smoking tobacco, he said, contains less chlorine than cigars.

Lighter Cars Predicted. Lighter automobiles, greater engine efficiency, and increased mileage was predicted by Prof. Robert Haslam, of Massachusetts Institute of Technology, as a result of improved automobile fuels and increasing the compression of the gasoline air mixture prior to explosion. Extensive chemical researches, he pointed out, had shown that the tendency to detonate could be greatly reduced by the addition of such chemical compounds as aniline, iron carbonyl and tetraethyl lead.

The action of the ductless glands and other organs are being studied by scientists all over the world, declared Dr. H. A. Shonle, of Indianapolis. "Not until we know the exact physiological relationships of these organs to the body as a whole, and to other organs, can we start to search for their specific chemical principles or hormones," he said.

park alongside the right of way shortly before the robbery. As the local slowed, he said he saw two men jump from it and run to the car. It was off in a twinkling.

Kelly and McCook were able to give but a meager description of the robbers. Postoffice Inspector Miller announced that the government will pay $4,000 for information leading to arrest or conviction of the robbers.

The stolen funds were intended for the Buda Co., the Austin Co. and the Wyman-Gorman Co., all of Harvey. The shipments were insured, and employees of the concerns were saved delay by an immediate duplicate shipment from the Chicago banks.

SPAIN LEAVES THE LEAGUE.

Spain has given notice of its withdrawal from the league of nations. The action has been foreshadowed ever since the league council denied Spain's demand for a permanent seat in the council. The vote of the assembly electing Germany a permanent member of the council was the signal for Spain to make good its threat of withdrawal.

The league of nations is now an organization composed of the great European powers and their satellites. The nations not comprised in the category of satellites of the great powers are likely to withdraw from the league when their interests are ignored or jeopardized, as they will be sooner or later. The league is taking a direction not contemplated by the idealists and materialists who founded it. It has not fully developed its novel course, but it has done enough to indicate what is coming. Instead of becoming an organism for curbing war propensities anywhere in the world, the league is becoming a mechanism for facilitating the great powers in their self-assumed task of directing European politics. The powers have agreed to cooperate in this task, each of them doubtless hoping and expecting to hold its own and gain something from its colleagues in the ceaseless battle of wits within the league. By cooperating among themselves the great powers can easily overawe the small nations and compel them to do whatever the powers wish them to do.

Spain, like Brazil and Argentina, is too big to be overawed, and too small to be included in the inner circle that seeks to dominate other powers. If Spain should remain in the league, it would be bound to the league covenant and the league machinery. The great powers could require her to observe rules which they would devise, and under the ambiguous provisions of the covenant they could easily put Spain in the wrong in any controversy. Besides, the league council has the "world court" to rely upon in case it should be desirable to fortify any action by an advisory opinion purporting to lay down the law. The court has already shown that it regards the covenant as the highest law, and the covenant sets up the league council as the executive of the law.

One by one, as the really independent nations discover that membership in the league means subservience to the four great powers of Europe, they may be expected to withdraw from the organization. The nations that are dependent for their existence upon the forbearance of their gigantic neighbors will remain in the league, and will do whatever they are required to do.

THE INSECT WAR.

The struggle between man and insect for mastery of the world is assuming vast proportions, and the insect seems to be gaining. Man, because of his thoughtlessness and his ignorance concerning his antagonist, is contributing to the success of the enemy. By providing the automobile, man has enabled the insect to establish colonies over great stretches of territory from which its dislodgment will be difficult, if not impossible. By producing a single crop instead of diversifying his output, the farmer is cultivating certain insects in such overpowering numbers that the farmer himself is overwhelmed. These facts, and many more equally alarming, are set forth by Dr. Austin H. Clark, of the Smithsonian Institution. From his safe place in the institution, immune from the attacks of the enemy, Dr. Clark sounds a clarion call to mankind, warning it of the intrigues and stratagems of the insect hordes.

About 600,000 kinds of insects have been identified, according to Dr. Clark. He adds that at least 3,000,000 other kinds are unknown; but he does not make clear how he has counted something that is unknown. However, let that pass; everybody knows that scientific gentlemen are absent-minded. Dr. Clark notes that 6,000 new kinds of insects are being described every year, which means that only 500 years of additional research is required for the identification of the entire 3,000,000.

In referring to the world war between man and insect Dr. Clark says:

The number of people who could be fed by the wheat or corn or other grain destroyed by insects or clothed by the cotton or wool lost every year through insect depredations represent the casualties of this battle. We discount these casualties as losses to the farmer, but take these figures and read them as losses to our army and see what that would mean.

The losses from insect depredations in this country are said to be $10,000,000,000 a year. This sum, oddly enough, represents the losses resulting from holdups, stealing, frauds and the high cost of pursuing criminals. As the value of the farm output is about $14,000,000,000 a year, and as farmers bear their share of losses from crime, it appears by the figures that agriculture in the United States is a losing proposition. Yet the farmers persist in buying automobiles and their insect enemies are scattered over the land, and the gunman and grafter flourish as never before.

One thing is certain—there must be an enlargement of the government's equipment for fighting this war against the insect. Dr. Howard, chief of staff, must be authorized to organize a national defense department. Bugologists of great caliber must be found—there must be patriotic dollar-a-year men remaining in this country. America must throw off its sloth and rise to the emergency. Congress, especially, must throw off its slavish fear of the budget. It is war that faces the country—war in its most hideous form—war fostered by American neglect and ignorance. Congress must face the issue and open the Treasury. It can do no other.

DEALING WITH BANDITS.

Practically within the city limits of Chicago three bandits yesterday held up the clerks in a mail and express car on a Grand Trunk train, seized pouches containing upward of $500,000 in cash and escaped without firing a shot. The money had been shipped by the Federal Reserve Bank of Chicago to a nearby city bank to meet heavy pay rolls.

The transfer of money in such large amounts in an ordinary express car pouch, unaccompanied by armed men, is little short of criminal carelessness, especially in the vicinity of Chicago, where the activities of bandits have become notorious.

The Federal Reserve Bank ought to prevail upon the government to detail a few detachments of marines to guard a treasure train. Nothing would please the "devil dogs" better than to give train robbers a lesson in good manners. (The expense would be insignificant, for the marines must be housed and fed anyhow, and such a detail, for them, would be in the nature of a picnic.)

It would seem, likewise, to be high time for business men and industries having large pay rolls to stop the practice of paying off in cash. If cash is not carried from banks to manufacturing establishments, money will not be stolen and the lives of faithful employees will not be endangered. Why not pay by check? One big New York concern has tried this plan and has found that it works well. Employees are paid by check and given half an hour off on pay day to visit the bank, where an office executive has identified each visitor. The bank has found this method less expensive in clerk hire and more expeditious for all concerned. Bandits are not looking for the workman with a week's wage in his pocket. They thrive only on the total pay roll; so why not abolish the pay roll?

"GRAIN GAMBLERS."

The Federal Trade Commission says, in a report to Congress, that "increased attention should be given to the elimination of the purely gambling element from the grain market."

This is a subject that has been considered by Congress for many years. In 1921 Congress enacted what was called the grain futures act, prohibiting gambling in grain when entering into interstate commerce. The United States Supreme Court declared the act unconstitutional, except as to two sections that gave the Secretary of Agriculture the power to investigate grain marketing conditions, including the operations of boards of trade.

Congress enacted the grain futures law of September 21, 1922, which the Supreme Court, April 16, 1923, held to be constitutional. This law is now in operation. This act prohibits "any contract of sale of grain for future delivery" except where the maker of the contract is the owner of the grain, or where the contract is made through a member of the board of trade designated as a "contract market." This is the central feature of the act. The intention of Congress was to dispel the mystery which has always beset the public mind with reference to trading in grain futures. The Department of Agriculture has been collecting accurate information. The volume of trading in grain futures on each of the principal boards of trade has been published ever since 1923. The several boards of trade have cooperated with the Department of Agriculture in making public all grain futures transactions, and in correcting whatever abuses existed.

It is often argued that future trading in grain tends to stabilize prices. The Federal Trade Commission denies this. It says:

Under existing conditions of speculation in grain futures, no such stabilizing influence has been found.

In his annual report for 1925 the Secretary of Agriculture discusses this matter, calling attention to the general trend of the price of wheat downward before the grain futures act went into effect, which was halted in July of that year, three months after the law became operative. The Secretary says:

The price of wheat in the United States during the year July 1, 1923, to June 30, 1924, was generally above the level of wheat prices in competing countries. . . . The strength of the wheat-futures market was very generally given credit at the time for sustaining American wheat prices.

Thus the Secretary of Agriculture seems to believe that dealing in grain futures, when conducted under the present law and through the cooperation of boards of trade, tends to stabilize prices. However, this is a mooted question.

Obviously the primary responsibility for observance of the requirements of the present law is imposed upon the boards of trade, subject to government supervision. The gambling element in the grain market may be eliminated largely by the boards of trade, under government supervision, without further radical legislation injecting the government into business.

THE FRAUDULENT TARIFF COMMISSION.

The Baltimore Sun, commenting upon the reappointment of Mr. Glasco to the tariff commission, declares "the purpose in providing Democratic as well as Republican membership was to bring to bear the traditional Democratic tariff viewpoint in the deliberations of the commission, and that purpose is mocked and derided if Democratic members become indistinguishable from the Republicans, who are dependably protectionists."

The tariff commission was created under the Wilson administration in the revenue act of September 8, 1916. The act stipulates that not more than three of its members "shall be members of the same political party." The personnel of the original tariff commission was designated by President Wilson. There were three simon-pure Democrats on the body, each believing in the low tariff, possibly free trade, which constituted one of the cardinal tenets of Democratic faith; the term "competitive tariff" had not then been devised by opponents of the protective tariff.

The three members of the original commission, designated to represent the Republican party were William Kent, of California; W. S. Culbertson, of Kansas, and E. P. Costigan, of Colorado. Will the Sun scan these names and indicate which one stood for the Republican doctrine of adequate protection?

If the purpose of requiring a bipartisan membership of the tariff commission was to "bring to bear the traditional Democratic tariff viewpoint" it may be fairly asked why the traditional Republican viewpoint was denied representation by the Democratic President.

Why not admit that both parties are merely playing politics with the tariff commission? The commission is a fraud when it pretends to eliminate politics, and it is a failure in keeping the tariff out of politics. It should be abolished, because the tariff is in politics, and ought to be. The party that gains power is responsible for the tariff law it enacts. The tariff commission is expected to reach nonpartisan conclusions acceptable to the party that is in power. The fraud is open, palpable and costly. Congress should abolish the commission.

WONDERS OF SCIENCE.

The discovery has just been made that fresh bread contains more alcohol than is carried in beverages permitted by the Antislavery league. Simultaneously, it is announced that Georges Michel, a Parisian baker, has broken the record by swimming the English channel in 11 hours and 5 minutes. The best previous time was made by Ernest Vierkoetter, also a baker.

The extraordinary speed of these bakers indicates that they were endowed, temporarily at least, with superhuman powers. Is not the secret to be found in the fact that fresh bread is rich in alcohol? These bakers appear to have discovered the secret. Keeping it strictly to themselves, they devoured the product of their ovens and, under the stimulation of the demon, they easily accomplished the feat that has daunted other athletes from time immemorial.

There is more in chemistry than the ordinary man wots of; witness the mysterious prophecies of scientists who hint of abolishing work by harnessing and enslaving the power hidden in atoms. Is man on the eve of momentous discoveries? Has he stumbled upon a mighty force, hidden in a loaf of fresh bread? If bakers can swim the English channel in record time by eating fresh bread, what may be expected when science has eliminated all waste and furnishes neat power in a few atoms? Why swallow a loaf of bread when a pellet the size of a pinhead will transform a man into an incomparable machine capable of jumping 10 miles high or swimming across the Atlantic?

Pending the development of this atomic superpower, Americans will of course seize upon the comfort afforded by fresh bread. The exhilaration resulting from the consumption of fresh bread ought to settle the question of the wheat surplus and eliminate the problem of farm relief. But it has been found that alcohol soon disappears from bread. Stale bread is not a stimulant. Therefore it is to be expected that the approaching session of Congress will be required to prohibit the manufacture, transportation and sale of fresh bread. Nobody should assume that Wayne B. Wheeler is asleep at the switch. If the citizens of the United States wish to indulge in fresh bread debauches they had better hurry.

Going the economy policy one better, a country postmaster gathers from the patrons of his office all the old inner tubes as soon as they cease to be useful on their flippers. With the aid of a very sharp knife he cuts them across and produces heavy rubber bands, which the rural carriers employ in "doing up" their bundles. It is estimated that the saving in time to the carrier added to the value of the twine thus conserved equals the cost of a new tube every two months. If Postmaster General New will encourage postmasters of the third and fourth classes to follow that careful New Yorker in his laudable example, Mr. New will perhaps be able to report a material reduction in the deficit in a very short time. The ocean is made up of little drops of water.

One reason why there are more corrupt people in America now than in 1890 is because the population is greater.

So golf costs America half a billion a year! What is more, it makes men live longer and thus consume a lot more.

There's one thing about the reformer's job—when he gets it done, there's always a new stock of raw material.

"Dirt is cheaper," says a farm paper. But most book stores still charge $2.

A hick town is one in which neighbors are friends as well as nuisances.

The Worst Story I Heard Today—By Will Rogers.

The worst joke I heard today was told to me by Irving Berlin. I imagine you have heard of Irving. When the world is in need of a new idea in the way of a song to hum my Irving goes over to the piano and picks out one finger from among the others and just starts herding a tune together and in a few weeks everybody will be trying to sing it, including most of the people that can't.

Well, he and his charming wife have been over here and I had the pleasure of dining with them. He had taken as much interest in my London opening as if he had been a relative. The father kinder kicked on the marriage when it was made. Be a good joke on the father if Irving was able to make her a living. He is just liable to do it too, for he has a little over two million now for a Nest egg. He is full of Gags.

An English Actor was kicking to the Manager because in an eating scene they didn't give them real food.

"How can I act on that Prop food? Give me some real food."

"All right," said the Manager, "I will give you real food in the table scene, real flames in the fireplace scene, and real poison in the death scene at the finish of the show."

PRESS COMMENT.

Just a Bit of Geography.

Detroit News: The English channel swimming season is over and the strip of water has now returned to its regular job of being a bit of geography.

Still Room for More.

Boston Transcript: Congressman Madden thinks that Congress may further reduce taxes in 1928. But they will still be far removed from the vanishing point.

Useful Revelations.

Buffalo Courier and Express: These Central American revolutions are annoying affairs but they prevent American gunboats from rusting away at their moorings.

Anti-Tobacco Reformers Active.

Indianapolis News: Although the anti-tobacco people are becoming active and aggressive, it is pretty hard to imagine an anti-tobacco amendment to the Constitution. But you never can tell. Fifty years ago it would have been just as hard for most people to imagine the eighteenth amendment.

No More General Strikes.

Philadelphia Inquirer: Whatever the leaders may think, the rank and file of British labor has had enough of the general strike. The proposal to give the General Council power to call out labor organizations for partial or complete stoppage of work was voted down by an overwhelming majority at the Trades Union Congress at Bournemouth.

No Longer Protects Britain.

Louisville Courier-Journal: The channel swimming epidemic has had one good result. Proponents of the tunnel to connect England and France are now using the argument that, since it is becoming an everyday occurrence for people to swim the strait, the narrow stretch of water has ceased to be a protection to the British Isles.

Civilization?

St. Louis Post-Dispatch: Grade crossings killed 359 persons and maimed 2,606 during the first five months of 1926. In each case there was a substantial increase over the figures for the corresponding months of last year.

These are appalling statistics. Until the grade crossing menace is ended it is idle to talk about this country's being civilized.

A Tip to Eldridge.

Minneapolis Journal: Residential streets should be protected from the noisy intrusion of trucks which have no real business there, but which seek out streets that are well paved, regardless of the homes that are disturbed.

"Traffic streets" should be designated for heavy and noisy traffic. These would naturally be the streets on which street cars run, as far as possible, since they are already given over to noisy vehicles. The quiet home streets should be forbidden to the noisy trucks, save for deliveries.

So This Is Justice!

Trenton State Gazette: Nathan F. Leopold, Jr., and Richard Loeb, sentenced to serve 99 years for kidnapping and to life terms in Joliet prison for murder, have served two years, and now there is talk of the possibility of their release at the end of nine years and three months. This is quite an interesting situation in

How to Succeed Though Rich

By THE ARBITRATOR.

FRANCES McDONALD, on the feature page of The Post, tells the girls a good many things they already know but like to have repeated. The poet was right: "Everybody loves a lover," most of all, the girls. It is the old, old story, ever new. Other authorities discourse frequently on the subject: "How to Be Happy Though Married." Nobody but the married folks, however, see the point or any sense in such discussions. This writer is content to leave these problems to Miss McDonald. Perhaps it might be timely to say something on the topic: "How to Succeed Though Rich; or, Industry and Happiness Versus Wealth and Idleness." The world gets most of its philosophy by example rather than by precept. Therefore, when possible, one should use a concrete case with which to "point a moral or adorn a tale."

Alanson B. Houghton, former Ambassador Extraordinary and Minister Plenipotentiary at Berlin, advanced by President Coolidge to succeed Ambassador Kellogg at London, is making a good record there. The rise of Mr. Houghton in official life has been rapid and recent. He is a graduate of Harvard university and later studied in Germany and France. Though of a literary bent, he entered manufacturing at Corning, N. Y., and his company is said to be the largest producers of electric light globes in the world.

Mr. Houghton has an independent fortune. If he so desired he could spend his time in recreation and travel. He has chosen to keep busy and make himself generally useful. He served in the Sixty-sixth and Sixty-seventh Congresses. One day Mr. Houghton, addressing the then floor leader, Hon. Frank W. Mondell, of Wyoming, said: "Mr. Mondell, being a new member I do not, of course, expect any special recognition. I am, however, tired of sitting with my arms folded listening to long speeches, so I want something to do. I don't care what it is, nor how hard or humble the duty, just so it will keep me busy. I am not looking for anything spectacular, just an opportunity to be useful." Mr. Mondell assigned Mr. Houghton several tasks which required much hard work, and found that his reports were methodical, complete and satisfactory.

When Mr. Houghton was recommended to President Harding for Ambassador to Germany, the President invited Mr. Mondell to the White House and asked him what he knew about Houghton. Mr. Mondell told President Harding of Mr. Houghton's good work in Congress, and that he (Mondell) had been a guest in Mr. Houghton's beautiful home in Corning; furthermore, that Mr. Houghton had one of the finest libraries in the United States and that he was familiar with it also.

Mr. Houghton's example ought to be encouraging to other rich men who are suffering from ennui, indigestion and gout.

view of the fact that there were few people who were able to fathom the strange operations of the judicial system that enabled them to escape death.

Politics Is—War.

Baltimore Sun: Because the clerk of one of Wisconsin's counties fired Miss Selma Fjelstad, his deputy, he has learned something about politics. He told her she lacked initiative. So she entered the primary and beat him out of the nomination for his own job. Thus is illustrated the elementary proposition that a good politician does not find positions for his friends solely to reward them for their loyalty to him. He also has in mind the thought that unless he keeps them happy they may start scrambling to get his own job away from him. And maybe they will do it anyhow. What a life!

Puncturing a Fiction.

New York Commercial: A reverend gentleman who syndicates questions and answers in a number of papers recently, in giving the reason for the increase in crime, leaves the impression it is due to the world war. Isn't it about time this fraud and fiction was punctured? The great majority of those engaged in crime are under 25 years of age, many of them around 20 and 22. At the time we were in the world war they were not children, did not go to the front, were not drafted, and had nothing whatever to do with the war. The pacifist statement that those engaged in crime got the inspiration from their army experience is utterly false.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR.

The "Prosperity" Argument.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: The New York Times ridicules what it calls the "ancient prosperity argument" as a political issue. It contends that prosperity does not belong to any political party, and that legislation can not make or unmake it.

But if prosperity follows the adoption of a party's policies, it is hard to combat that party. It inspires confidence, and confidence is the mainspring of enterprise. A lack of confidence prompts business men, capitalists and investors, to put on the brakes and hold on to their money.

The "prosperity argument" is powerful and vital because it has a psychological effect upon men of vision and men of means. Long experience has taught them a lesson, and they profit thereby. No argument to the contrary can make men dissatisfied with prosperity.

REPUBLICAN.

Washington, Sept. 10.

Plight of Washington Trees.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: Returning to the city I have been shocked by the condition of its trees, eaten by the caterpillars, which will finish them up if drastic measures are not taken at once. No amount of spraying can cope with the pest; no flock of birds could do it, even if the creatures were not hairy as they are.

Let them (who are they? Perhaps they inspect parks and trees from their cars) start now and keep busy while their work may be effective, destroy the pests in their sleep. It is easy enough to see the white cocoons. If the army of school children were properly mobilized and each tree carefully cleaned of its dormant menace through the fall and winter, a great work would have been accomplished.

I understand this city has the system of taxation without representation; but, even so, there is no possible excuse for this fifth, as there is no excuse for the criminal destruction in Connecticut avenue. Is there no one interested enough in the city to start a tea party? Yours sincerely, D. C. C.

MUNICIPAL OWNERSHIP.

Discussion of the advantages and disadvantages of public ownership and control of public utilities in the United States is extremely active just now, according to the Christian Science Monitor. The State of New York, with its water-power question and its canal problem, furnishes an example of this fact.

Jacksonville, Fla., offers a striking example of profitable public ownership of an electric power plant.

This plant began working in city ownership in 1895. Since it has earned over and above operating costs, sinking fund and interest charges a total of $4,000,000 up to June 30, 1925, according to a report of the city commission, which operates it. This sum has been turned over to the city treasury during the 30 years of municipal management and has been applied against the general expenses of the city. This has resulted directly in a reduction of nearly 20 per cent in the tax rate of the city.

At His Best When He's Silent.

Cincinnati Enquirer: The consensus seems to be that if his last outbreak is a sample of the best he can do, Newton D. Baker would do better by keeping his silence hitting on all six.

LIEUT. WOLFE WINS LIBERTY BELL RACE IN SESQUI CONTESTS

Lieut. Kenneth Walker Takes Second Place Among the Military Aviators.

SPEED TROPHY FALLS TO LIEUT. L. C. ELLIOTT

Course Covered at 160.483
Miles an Hour for the Joan
L. Mitchell Award.

Philadelphia, Sept. 10 (By A. P.). Flying a Huff-Daland bomber, Lieut. L. M. Wolfe, of McCook field, Dayton, Ohio, today won the Liberty Bell trophy in the race for large-capacity airplanes at the national air race meet. The event was open to military planes only and the distance was 120 miles over a 12-mile course.

Lieut. Wolfe flew the 120 miles in 55 minutes 11.84 seconds, at an average speed of 123.714 miles an hour.

Lieut. Kenneth Walker, of Langley field, Va., was second, with a speed of 119.639 miles an hour. Lieut. J. M. Davies, also of Langley field, finished third. His speed was 118.667 miles an hour. They also flew Huff-Daland planes. Fourth place went to Capt. F. I. Glin, who piloted a Douglas transport machine. His average speed was 114.810 miles an hour.

It was the first time the army air corps has had the Huff-Daland planes in competition. They were equipped with 800-horsepower Packard motors and carried a load of 1,250 pounds in the race, while the Douglas transport plane was equipped with a Liberty motor and carried 800 pounds. The Huff-Dalands, before being loaded, weighed 6,500 pounds, and with the extra load they represented nearly four tons each. Despite this, their pilots rounded the pylons at very sharp angles.

Lieut. L. C. Elliott won the speed race for the Joan L. Mitchell trophy when he piloted a Curtiss Hawk plane over the 120-mile course at a speed of 160.483 miles an hour. The event was limited to planes from the United States army first pursuit group stationed at Selfridge field, Mich.

The winner of this race in former years represented the army in the Pulitzer races.

Second place was won by Capt. F. H. Pritchard, who flew at an average speed of 160.121 miles an hour. Six pilots competed, all in Curtiss Hawk planes.

376, Not 6, Separated From Federal Jobs

Three hundred and seventy-six employees of the government in the District were separated from their jobs in July instead of six, the United States civil service commission announced yesterday, and these separations brought the District employment roll down to 60,435, the lowest point reached since the war.
In a previous statement issued by the commission, the reduction in July was given as only six employees.
The commission announced yesterday that this discrepancy was due to a typographical error in preparing the notice for the press. The figures compiled for official use were correct and showed the reduction in July as 376.

WEATHER CONDITIONS.

U. S. Dept. of Agriculture, Weather Bureau,
Washington, Friday, Sept. 10—8 p. m.
Forecast: Fair to clear with light variable winds; Sunday increasing cloudiness and warmer, probably showers; Sunday night; gentle, variable winds, becoming moderate southerly.
For Virginia: Fair Saturday and Sunday, with slowly rising temperature; gentle to moderate northeast, shifting to east and southeast winds.
A tropical disturbance of unknown intensity is apparently central about midway between Bermuda and Porto Rico, and it is probably moving toward the northwest or west-northwest.
An extensive disturbance covers the western half of the United States, with centers of minimum pressure over northern Texas and southern Arizona, and another area of low pressure over the Colorado Plateau. The disturbance is moving eastward toward the Mississippi river, and it is high and rising rapidly over the Canadian Northwest and western Montana. There has been local rain within the last 24 hours in portions of the Atlantic States that Gulf States, Montana, Alberta and Saskatchewan. Fair weather has prevailed in all other regions. The temperature has fallen in the Atlantic States as far south as South Carolina, and decidedly cooler weather has overspread portions of Montana and Alberta.
There has been a reaction to somewhat higher temperatures, however, in the plains States, the southern Rocky mountain region and in the middle Missouri and upper Mississippi valleys.
Generally fair weather will prevail Saturday and Sunday over the Mississippi river, except that the eastward advance of the western disturbance may cause showers by Sunday night in Tennessee, the Ohio valley and the lower lake region. The temperature will be slowly, except in the south Atlantic States, however, cooler weather will again overspread the Ohio valley and the lower lake region Sunday night.

11,000 U.S. MILLIONAIRES, ONE BILLIONAIRE FOUND

North Dakota Only State
Without One, Says Article in Bankers' Journal.

2,800 ARE IN NEW YORK

New York, Sept. 10 (By A. P.). There are 11,000 millionaires and probably 1 billionaire in the United States, in the opinion of Joseph S. McCoy, Treasury actuary.

"The billionaire probably lives in New York," Mr. McCoy guesses in the current American Bankers Association Journal.

Nine years ago, when war profits held sway, there were 11,800 millionaires, but 2,800 of these topped in 1920 and 2,000 of them have been replaced, studies of income tax returns show. Some of the millionaires were even wiped out of the income-tax lists by the end of the 1920 depression, but today 1 out of every 10,450 Americans is a millionaire.

New York, with 2,800 millionaires, leads the list. Pennsylvania is next, with 1,052, then Illinois follows, with 800. Massachusetts, with 610; California, 470; and New Jersey, 390. North Dakota is the only State without a millionaire, and Idaho, Nevada, South Dakota and New Mexico have 1 each.

Other States are Alabama, 26; Arizona, 7; Arkansas, 24; Colorado, 44; Connecticut, 150; Delaware, 24; District of Columbia, 86; Florida, 51; Georgia, 42; Hawaii, 30; Indiana, 55; Iowa, 32; Kansas, 17; Kentucky, 32; Louisiana, 25; Maine, 30; Maryland, 129; Michigan, 312; Minnesota, 110; Mississippi, 14; Missouri, 174; Montana, 18; Nebraska, 16; New Hampshire, 28; North Carolina, 62; Ohio, 361; Oklahoma, 33; Oregon, 24; Rhode Island, 83; South Carolina, 19; Tennessee, 29; Texas, 96; Utah, 61; Vermont, 15; Virginia, 36; Washington, 24; West Virginia, 52; Wisconsin, 55; and Wyoming, 2.

Next to the billionaire are three men worth $1,000,000.00 between them, and in 1924 there were 74 Americans with incomes of $1,000,000 a year.

Wealthy Stockman Convicted of Murder

McCook, Neb., Sept. 10 (By A. P.).—Burt M. Davis, former Beaver City grocer and wealthy stockman, was found guilty of first-degree murder in connection with the death of his first wife, Blanche, by a district court jury today. His punishment was fixed at life imprisonment.

Davis' first trial several months ago resulted in a hung jury. Davis was alleged to have poisoned his wife so that he could marry Mrs. Kate Reeler, a neighbor, four months after his wife's death. Mrs. Reeler was held as an accessory, but was acquitted by a jury at Elwood after Davis' first trial. She and Davis blamed the charges to "Main street" tongue wagging at Beaver City, from where a change of venue was granted.

Maccabees to Hold Juvenile Field Day

With athletic contests, races and games scheduled in addition to amusement park attractions, the Maccabees will hold their annual juvenile field day at Glen Echo park today. A special program of features for smaller children has been arranged.

Members of the committee in charge are J. W. Fletcher, chairman; Miss Martha Talbot, John B. Garst and Mrs. Pearl Mead. Others actively engaged are Maj. Walker, Julius Cohen, Frank Hannan, Martha Talbot, Daisy Garst, Hattie P. Crouch, Joseph Collins, Robert Purchase, Evelyn Crouch, Bertha Wolf, Mary Gray, J. H. Vass, E. C. Manry, Warren E. Welch and Dr. Herbert H. Gates.

DID YOU KNOW THAT—

There is a new type of orange squeezer on the market that offers a large cup space so that preparing the morning orange juice has become a very simple proposition and one that need not be omitted for lack of time.

Pancake batter that is lumpy when ready for frying may be made quite smooth by beating it with the egg beater. This adds to rather than detracts from the success of the pancake as the air introduced in this manner tends to make the batter lighter.

Nothing is more effective than turpentine for keeping the bathtub free from stains.

Dried apricots, washed and chopped fine, may be substituted for citron in cake and pudding making and the difference in price justifies the substitution. The result is practically identical.

Four cups of flour equal one quart or one pound.

That for a party or church supper where many plates are prepared in advance of the seating, the jelly that is to go with the supper may be served on each plate as well as the other foods. One serving of about a tablespoonful will take three quarts for 40 plates. N. C.

The Housekeeper

Nancy Carey—

A READER has requested a bit of information about the alligator pear or avocado, as it is properly known. She would like to know something of its origin, realizing that it is not a product of our own country, and likewise something of the use to which it may be put. As to its origin, Mrs. G. V., it comes, so far as we know, from Guatemala, Mexico or South America, and because for at least six months of the year that it is available in the Latin-American countries and very cheap (selling for from a half to a cent a pear) it constitutes a large part of the diet of the native population of the country. It is a fruit rich in oil as well as one possessed of the general properties which are common to all fruits and is therefore nourishing. The tree bearing the avocado was introduced into southern California in about 1870 and because of the semitropical nature of that country considerable success has been encountered in the maintenance of small orchards. From Florida and the West Indies this fruit is also shipped to our markets. Our taste for the avocado is a cultivated one, coming to us much as has the taste for green olives and bananas to say nothing of tomatoes, which were once considered quite unfit for eating. Pears are shipped in containers that must be kept constantly at a low temperature, and the cost of transportation is high, thus the market price correspondingly so. As opposed to a half cent or a cent apiece in the tropics they retail in our own food stalls for from 20 to 50 cents each, even at the season of their relative plenty. But once a taste has been acquired it seems to be difficult for persons to do without this delicious and fabulous fruit. Prices are paid in the fancy food markets when the fruit is out of season. Let us hope, those of us who are fond of this delicacy, that the demand will, in the near future, so increase home production that the cost will be materially lower.

Alligator pears are used chiefly as a salad and they are a very substantial one. They are also used to some extent and very delightfully as a garnish for soup, being added in small pieces at the last moment as we would add croutons when the soup is piping hot and ready to serve. Probably the most usual manner in which to serve an avocado is to cut the fruit in half, lengthwise, remove the stone and fill the bowl with French dressing. A half is as a rule served as a portion. A bit of onion flavor is frequently added to the dressing when served this way. Some enjoy the pear more with just a sprinkling of salt, or it may be sliced on lettuce leaves with cucumber that has been thinly sliced or diced and soaked for a length of time in salted ice water.

Alligator pears have been at what may be called the height of their season as far as we are concerned for some time, but they will shortly start the upward climb as to price. We have made use of them in our menu once or twice only as they are not a common food and not what could be known as a popular one. Today a salad arranged in any of the ways described may be used with our menu.

We have your letter, Mrs. Poates, but I am wondering where we had best begin. Suppose we start today with a recipe for you for baked apple dumplings and go down the line as we can.

Baked Apple Dumpling.
6 crisp apples (small).
Biscuit dough.
1 1/2 tablespoons butter.
1/2 cup sugar.
Cinnamon.

Core and peel the apples and roll out your biscuit dough to form a fourth to an eighth of an inch in thickness. Cut into six pieces and put the apple either whole, quartered or sliced into the center of each piece. Put a lump of butter into each little bundle, sprinkle the apple with sugar and cinnamon and turn over the corners of the biscuit dough to cover the apple. Bake in a moderate oven from a half to three-quarters of an hour, or a little longer if the apple is left whole. Serve with hot sauce.

And now for our Sunday's menu. If you prefer to bake on Saturday

WIVES OF TOMORROW

By FRANCES McDONALD

See a Lawyer.

DEAR MISS McDONALD: As I am a reader of your advice to married girls, I would like for you to advise me the best you can. Have been married 13 years—married when I was a mere child—am now 29. My married life has been very sad. My husband is 9 years older than myself—a very strange man. I do not understand a man of sound mind to want any one to live as he wants me to live. He mistreats all of my kinfolds and does not allow them to come in his home. But in the meantime he welcomes his for me to slave for. But this I have endured. The worst trouble now—he fell in love with a girl 19 years of age—two years ago. At that time she was single. But at the present time she is married. But he still talks about her. Recently I found a letter he had written her, telling her he had made his will and had included her in his will—willing her my home that I had worked so hard to help him get. Understand, it is not paid for yet, but his insurance would cover the balance on it. We have one child—a boy, a sweet boy, who in a few more years will be self-sustaining. He is very devoted to both of us. And begs me to try to live with his father. And that is why I have—for his sake. I am such a nervous wreck I could not go out and support myself. Am considered very nice looking and have a very jolly disposition and love friends and nice, clean sports. Please advise me as to whether you would continue to live such a sad and lonely life for a man of such a type? Yours for happiness, ELSA.

It is hard to see what you can hope to gain by remaining weekly under the roof of a man who is even now planning to bequeath that roof to another man's wife. If you still have the letter, I suggest you take it to a reputable attorney and follow his advice. As always in such cases my concern is for the boy whose morals are bound to be involved in his father's morals. The man who goes so far as to will his home to some woman is a man deeply in need of some tangible or of unsound mind. In either case you should seek protection. If he has been imposed upon or is being black mailed or a weak and helpless dupe then a lawyer can help him as well as you. If he is just mentally irresponsible, then that fact should be established for your protection and his. In any case—see a lawyer—and do as he advises.

Conduct and Common Sense

By ANNE SINGLETON.

TROUSSEAU AND MONOGRAMS.

VERY often I am asked about the initials and monograms on brides' trousseaux linen and silver. The question of the last letter worries people. I think any personal possessions of a woman before her marriage that carry her maiden initials should be left that way. But she is going (unless she is a Lucy Stone league woman) to change her name and keep house with and for her husband, and I consider that silver and linen for the household should have the initial of the household's last name. I think articles for her personal use should have her new initials on them. Suppose she were marrying an Englishman or foreigner of title, would she or wouldn't she have the coronet she was going to wear marked on her linen, on her toilet articles, on her traveling bags? She would indeed, you may be sure. So would I and so would you. Then why balk at the initial of her husband's name? It doesn't seem to me common sense to put a bride's maiden initials on anything she is going to use as a married woman. Even if she were to separate from her husband, she would probably keep his surname. Almost all divorced women do. Under no circumstances could she go back to her maiden name if she followed present fashions.

Therefore I should advise that all general household articles be marked with the monogram of both husband and wife, the husband's personal things with his, the wife's with hers, including her new surname. Such things as belong to stables, motors and outdoor life, generally I should mark for the man.

BEAUTY AND YOU

By VIOLA PARIS.

QUESTIONS ANSWERED.

DEAR VIOLA PARIS: Please tell me what to do for deep hollows under the eyes. Is there any good skin food that will fill them in quickly? MRS. J. J. C.

Answer—It is a very difficult thing to correct deep hollows under the eyes by any external application. The best thing to do is to discover the cause and to correct that. Perhaps it is lack of sleep or some internal trouble, or general ill health. You should try, in every way possible, to regulate your daily routine along wholesome lines. I should feel that I were deceiving you if I told you that any "skin food" could quickly fill the hollows that you mention. Sometimes a fatty preparation has been known to help. If you would like to try this plan, I would suggest that you get pure lanolin and smooth it around the eyes every night at bedtime. As I said before, however, this can not be absolutely relied upon for successful results in every case. The only treatment that I could conscientiously recommend would be strict attention to the general health.

JUST FOLKS

By EDGAR A. GUEST.

A MOTHER'S COUNSEL.

"There is sin in the world," said the mother wise,
"But be you brave and true
And never the joy shall quit your eyes
Or the sin bring hurt to you."
There are those in the world who would betray.
But be you not afraid,
If you hearken not to what tempters say
You shall never be betrayed.
"This life knows much that is red with shame,
But, daughter of mine, be true
And the words which poison a woman's fame
Shall never be said of you."
"For you may walk where the sinners are
If your heart be pure within,
And whether the road be short or far
You shall never be touched by sin."
(Copyright, 1926, Edgar A. Guest.)

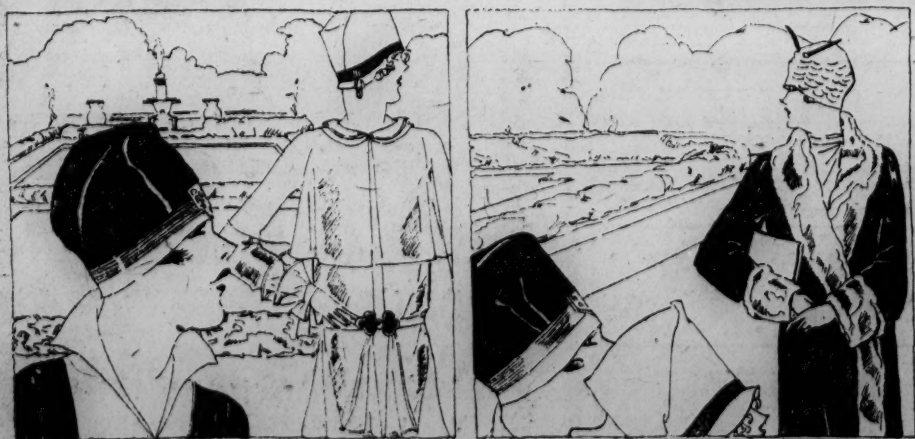

Dear Viola Paris: I am 18 years old and have black hair that seems of late to be turning chestnut color. What should I do about it?
Miss G. L. M.

Answer—If I were you, I should not worry too much about this change, which seems to have no apparent reason and which may not be permanent. Just because your hair does not look as black as formerly is no sign that it is going to turn gray or white, which would be rather improbable at your age. I dislike to see anything used to change the color of the hair artificially, for I believe that this takes away all its natural charm.

It would be well for you to take especially good care of the hair and scalp. Apply a reliable tonic—at first, daily, then about two or three times a week—not to alter the color of the hair in any way, but to encourage a healthy condition of the scalp.

MODISH MITZI

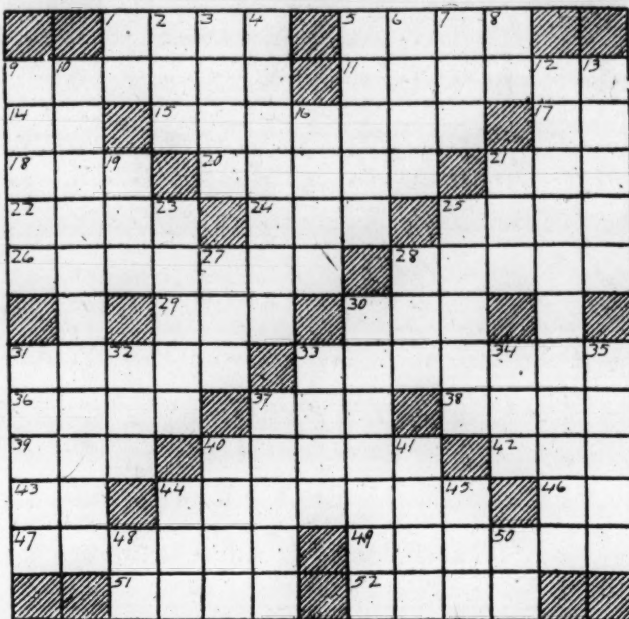

Mitzi was admiring the Sunken Garden at Humboldt Park, when she found herself looking at a dress she recognized. The cape collar and jabot front drape could belong to no other dress than the newest one that Polly owns. They are out to take a last glimpse of Chicago before leaving for more eastern points.

Not far from this spot, Polly and Mitzi see a very handsome kashmir coat with collar of fur coming toward them. This coat belongs to no other than Aunt Sophia who has come to her favorite spot in Chicago as a farewell promenade for they are leaving in the morning.

SON'S COLOR WORRIES MHR.

MRS. J. M. B. writes: Will you please help me, too?
My boy, 6½ years old, has dark circles under his eyes. His color is white or yellow. He complains of his head aching; quite often his nose bleeds. He has some throat trouble. Sometimes it doesn't bother him for months, so I don't think it is serious.
He weighs 46 pounds and is about 47 inches high. He eats lots of fresh fruits and vegetables. Drinks a glass of milk five times a day; eggs twice a week; no coffee or tea. He eats lots for a boy his age.

He goes to bed about 8 p. m. and gets up at 6:30 or 7 a. m. Has a short nap of an afternoon when not in school. He sleeps with his brother, 2½ years old, in their bedroom. Their windows are never down.
He plays out of doors from morning till night. We have a garden in the rear of our house. He enjoys it, too.

REPLY.
Your boy is about the proper height and weight. There seems to be nothing wrong except that the boy's color is not good; he has nosebleeds, headaches and throat infections.

Continue your present open air, good food, and plenty of rest policy. I doubt if you can better it.

HER BOY STUTTERS.
V. A. K. writes: Our little boy, aged 2 years and 8 months, has within the last three weeks, developed a bad stuttering habit, and it seems as though we are having little success breaking him of it. He is not yet forming complete sentences very successfully and seems to talk very quickly. Instead of getting better, he seems to be getting worse.

Is this something that will affect his speech permanently, or is it something that he will outgrow? What is the best procedure we can undertake to cure him of this?

REPLY.
He will have this trouble permanently unless you begin training him now. Train him to speak slowly and calmly. Do not refer directly to his stuttering. Don't let any one irritate him. See that he gets plenty of sleep. See that he is shielded from excitement. Be patient, persistent, quiet and easy in your training.

BOOKS ON INFANT CARE.
Mrs. M. W. writes: I have a Caesarian section baby 4 months old. She is bottle-fed. She has intestinal upsets about twice a month. I am afraid I am spoiling her. She is very nervous.
Where can I get books that will help me to raise her and to train her?

REPLY.
You can get good booklets on infant care from the United States Department of Labor, children's bureau, Washington, D. C., and from your State and your city health departments.

BEST PLACE IS AT HOME.
Mrs. V. A. writes: My baby is 20 months old.
Can I take her for an automobile trip that will take several days?

REPLY.
It will be moderately safe. Nevertheless, the best place for a baby that age is at home.

RUTH AND PETER

By AHMED ABDULLAH

(Copyright, 1926, Thompson Feature Service, Inc.)

WHAT HAS GONE BEFORE—
Ruth Weller, young, pretty and very ambitious, secured a position as secretary to Peter Barton, a distinguished New York lawyer. Harry Davis, a young man in Barton's employ, is in love with her. Ruth is sharing an apartment with two sisters, Edna and Mattie Mathews, and Mattie and Ruth are taking a night school course in law. Mattie Andrews formerly occupied the apartment with the girls, but is now living alone. Although Riccardo Martinez, an unscrupulous adventurer, tried to lure her away from Barton, she discouraged the attentions of Harry, and after a time he falls in love with and marries Edna and goes into business for himself. Meanwhile Ruth and Barton, after struggling against their fondness for some time, admit their love for each other and are married in spite of the disapproval of his mother and Mattie. Mattie wished him to marry a certain little French countess. Barton then engages Mattie as his secretary and Ruth is dismissed to find that now she has become his wife he is no longer willing to share his business interests with her. About this time she introduces Nelda to Mattie as the result of an accidental meeting, and through Mattie Nelda meets Martinez. He immediately engages in a flirtation with her, hoping to obtain blackmail by compromising her. Mattie is fanatically jealous and quarrels bitterly with Martinez. One morning she is found murdered, but Martinez tries to prove an alibi. While she is taking place Ruth is growing more and more jealous, first of Barton's employment and Ruth goes North with Nelda to recover from a nervous breakdown. There they meet Martinez, who now calls himself Del Santa Cruz, and he renews his flirtation with Nelda, like her first wife, to arouse Nelda's jealousy. Nelda and Ruth quarrel and Ruth tries to strike the man who has seduced her in an effort to prove him guilty of Mattie's murder.

CHAPTER XXIV.
"Snake and Bird."
Nelda was very bitter against Ruth.
"For just a moment the thought that Ruth had told her the truth flashed into her brain. But she dismissed it at once.
She wanted the field clear where Del Santa Cruz was concerned. Not that she really loved him. Nor had she the slightest intention of allowing the flirtation to become serious. For she was too cautious. She did not have the courage of her faint longings. And deep in her heart she cared only for her husband. Her reckless gaitless were only ways of expressing defiance of convention and resentment at Meredith Dexter's neglect of her. Moreover, she liked skating on thin ice, felt both thrilled and, somehow, virtuous, when the ice did not break under her frivolous feet.
She wanted Del Santa Cruz as her own exclusive property, her cavalier servant, to fetch and carry as she wished, her particular tame cat. It enraged her to think that the cat was not as tame as she had imagined, that it was willing to wander from one hearth to another.
Very well. She would stop the cat from straying. There was a way. She would simply warn him against Ruth.
She rose early the next morning after a sleepless night and dispatched a note to him by the chair boy who took her down to the beach, wondering in his gullest African heart what this pretty white lady was up to at this entirely unfashionable hour. For it was before 9 in the morning. Palm Beach was still deserted. Not even nursemaids and children were on the sands, staring with unseeing eyes at the blue immensity of the ocean.
Far off on the horizon there was a thin thread of smoke in the wake of an unseen ship.
She tilted her scarlet parasol. She frowned at an unoffending seagull. In his room, suddenly awakened from sleep, Del Santa Cruz frowned, too, as he opened the note.
Then he read—and smiled.
"When you get this," wrote Nelda, "come to me as quickly as possible. I shall be on the beach—about a quarter of a mile up toward Gus' bath. I must see you at once. I have something very serious to say to you."
It was signed: "Nelda."
The note, had all the earmarks of a woman in the clutch of circumstance and emotion. It would be a valuable addition to his collection. So he put it away carefully, dressed with care but great speed; gulped a cup of coffee in the breakfast room and walked up the beach toward the unfashionable direction of Gus' bath—which were occasionally patronized by guests from the Palm Beach hotels as the censor there was not as strict in the matter of stockings or no stockings, skirts or no skirts.
He recognized Nelda's scarlet parasol from afar, reached her, sank on the sand by her side, asked in a tone of intimate, humorous complaint:
"I've only just gone to bed—and here you get me out of bed again! I'll forgive you if you tell me at once what is bothering you—how I can help you!"
"Ruth," she said; stopped.
He was instantly on his alert. "What?" he demanded.
"I saw you with her last night—You—"
"I kissed her!" he interrupted, very smoothly. "A charming moment! A delightful interlude! Her lips are both soft and warm! Why should I deny the evidence of your eyes—and on my own senses?" She gasped at his audacity. Before she could speak he continued: "My dear Nelda—do you imagine Enough that I lost my head last night. Ruth is charming. I do not love her—you will believe that, for it's the truth—but she was pretty, and we were alone * * * and—well—it's your own fault!"

"You starved me—my love—my passion—my desire! So—well—she caught me—a little on the rebound! The next best thing—since I can't have the best! Incidentally, I knew her—knew her quite well—before she became Mrs. Barton—when she was still a little stenographer. And—you know what stenographers are like and—"

"Pardon! I do not mean to be indiscreet!"
"Clever words; and Nelda's mind seized, as he knew it would, on the implication of a certain intimacy between him and Ruth before the latter's marriage.

She said hoarsely:
"She told me she detests you!"
"At the man's dark eyes narrowed. He knew that Nelda did not believe that Ruth detested him. But, suddenly, he himself was quite sure of it. Then, what was Ruth's game? For a fool he had been to allow his vanity even for a moment to lull his suspicions!"
"She told me," Nelda rushed on, "she was only trying to flatter you—to make you show yourself in your own true colors. Told me she suspected you of—"

"What?"
"Oh, it's too ridiculous."
"Tell me!"
"I don't believe it; I don't think she does. But—"
"Well—"
"If you must hear it, she—she said something about you in connection with the death of Mattie Andrews."
"The man's lean, brown hands clutched at the thin sand; opened; let the warm grains drift through the snowy fingers.
"How pleasant!" he commented before the pause had grown too long. "And granted she believes it, why does she pretend to be my friend?"
"She has some idea you might betray yourself. Oh, the whole thing is so ridiculous. What I can't understand is why she feels she must invent such an elaborate and terrible explanation!"
"Perhaps," he said carelessly. "It is the truth."
"Don't be silly!"
He laughed; rose.
"Thank you for the morning. I have letters to write; important letters that must get out today early. Shall we bathe and lunch?"
"Gladly!"
"And—forget this little contretemps. I shall have it out with your sister-in-law if I have to. But I do think the best thing is to avoid her—in the future."
"Will that be hard?" she asked, rising, her hands in his.
"Nothing could be easier," he assured her. "I was playing with her. And, after a pause: "I can not play with you, my dear!"
She twisted her hands away. But Del Santa Cruz was determined that now and here was the psychological moment to force her to some sort of admission, for he could not stay much longer at Palm Beach. He had barely enough money to keep him here until the end of the season; did not know what to do afterward. So he went on, in a blurred, passionate whisper:

"Nelda! That's why I—yes—I'd better give you up * * *"
"Oh * * *"
"I can not stand it. You do not love me!"
"I care for you!" she managed to say.

"Care for me? What is that? You care for your maiden aunt and your lap dog. Well—I am neither. I—I love you. Nelda—please—"
"No, no—it is impossible!"
She felt caught in a trap. No use to evade and promise and keep off. She saw him, stern now, commanding, and knew he would have his answer before he left the spot. And Nelda was not of the stuff of which erring wives were made: She might peer a little behind the curtain of temptation, but she would never pass through it and be hidden from the sight of an audience.
He dropped her hands.

M'DIARMID TO MEET KURLAND FOR JUNIOR NET TITLE

Dodge Loses Semifinal Match

Baltimorean Triumphs in 2 Sets; to Play Finals Today.

D. C. Survivor Scores Over Yeomans, 6-1, 5-7, 6-2.

HUGH M'DIARMID will carry Washington's hopes in his match this morning against Al Kurland, the Baltimore flash, for victory in the Harding Memorial cup tournament. Arranged against a field of 60 local boys at the start of the week, Kurland has won his way to the finals by brilliant tennis. M'Diarmid, too, has played well, but has had less sterling opposition than the Baltimorean.

Kurland earned his way for a whack at the cup yesterday by taking the measure of Freddy Dodge in straight sets, 6-2 and 6-4. The visitor was the master throughout and only exerted himself when necessary to insure the victory.

M'Diarmid was forced into a three-set match by Yeomans, the score being, 6-1, 5-7, and 6-2. M'Diarmid apparently loafed through the second set and was much the better of the two, when he wanted to be.

The finals will start at 11 o'clock this morning and will be a three-out-of-five set match. The hour for starting was advanced from 3 in the afternoon to permit Kurland to return to Baltimore for a tournament there.

Hartford Insects

Beat Johnsons, 5-2

The Hartford Insects defeated the Johnsons yesterday, 5 to 2. Lady served them up for the winners and allowed five hits and fanned eighteen batters. The Hartford collected sixteen hits off of C. Jones. Jones whiffed eleven batters.

The hitting feature was furnished by Sampson with a homer and two triples. The Hartforders are anxious to arrange a game with the Kid Kelleys and the Langleys. Telephone Franklin 6558-W.

Structure Will Cost $153,000 and Will Have Many Features.

EDWARDS' SEAT IS SOLD

By F. W. PATTERSON.
The Takoma Park Bank, which opened for business October 1, 1917, in a small room in the rear of a building on Maple avenue, and which later moved into the building it now occupies, has made such rapid strides that, despite a recent addition to its present building, it has been forced to seek additional quarters.

Ground was broken yesterday for a new home at Carroll and Willow avenues. The structure will be of steel, concrete and Indiana limestone, and when completed will represent an outlay of $153,000. The lobby will be 40 feet by 20 feet. Spacious rooms will be provided for the officers of the institution and a ladies' rest room and a room with public telephone booths will be features. Tilghman & Moyer, of Allentown, Pa., are the architects and builders. Every modern convenience and safeguard known to bank construction will be incorporated in the building. The bank has a capital of $50,000, surplus, $100,000, and undivided profits reaching $36,000, with total resources approximating $225,000. Officers are Henry F. Taft, president; David Feldman and E. Brooke Lee, vice presidents; W. Preston Gibson, cashier, and Ben G. Davis, O. E. Dietz and R. Wier Waters, assistant cashiers. With the senior officers the board of directors has for its membership Louis D. Bliss, L. B. Burdette, H. H. Cobban, E. V. Crittenden, T. Dowsett, W. K. Hill, M. Holzbeierlein, P. Blair Lee, F. G. Miller, W. G. Platt, Doran S. Platt, H. E. Rogers, J. W. Shadle and J. L. Shaw.

Local Market Transactions.
Capital Traction shares dominated the trading in yesterday's session of the Washington stock exchange, and ending at 105 1/2, one-eighth better than last preceding close, sold to the extent of 100 shares in six lots at that level, but on the closing sale of an odd 2 shares price dropped to 105 1/4. As the session ended the stock was marked up 105 1/2 and 105 1/4 asked. Potomac Electric Power preferred offered firm at 107 1/2, and following the sale of 12 shares at that price, gained to 107 3/4, which level it maintained to close. Washington Railway & Electric preferred gained to 90 on a small turnover.

Union Trust Co. came out at 22 1/2, with 12 1/2 shares changing hands. 10-share Cornover saw a recession to 22 1/2, but on a final transaction in 20 shares the price returned to the opening price of 22 3/4. Riggs National Bank sold 10 shares at 150. In the miscellaneous list, Merchants Transfer & Storage preferred was firm at 101, Mergenthaler Linotype advanced to 105, People's Drug Stores preferred sold unchanged at 105, while Lantson Monotype picked up to 90 on an odd lot sale.

On the investment side Georgetown Gas Light 5s were up a fraction to sell at 99. Capital Traction 5s gained to 101 1/2 and Washington Gas Light 6s sold in the smaller denomination at 102 1/2.

Edwards' Seat Brings $150,000.

Word came from New York yesterday of the sale of the seat of the late John L. Edwards on the New York Stock Exchange to L. Tucker Burr, Jr., at a price reported to have been $150,000. The sale was brought about by the Riggs National Bank, executors for the Edwards estate, as under the stock exchange rules ownership of a seat cannot be passed on to a member of the firm, but must be disposed of by an outright sale.

The sale of the New York Stock Exchange seat will in no way affect the regular brokerage service of John L. Edwards & Co., as the office will continue the regular wire and other financial service that it has maintained with Hornblower & Weeks for many years.

NEW YORK COTTON.

New York, Sept. 10 (By A. P.).—Renewed selling activity in cotton quotations sent the price of December contracts down to 17 1/2 in the cotton market today, or 17 points net lower and 4 points below the high level last Wednesday. There was a little covering and trading at the close, but a rally to 17 1/2 was not fully maintained, and December closed at 17 1/2, the general market being barely steady at net declines of 8 to 18 points.

Market opened easy at a decline of 10 to 14 points in response to earlier Liverpool cables, prospective better weather in the belt and overnight selling orders. Except for covering there was little demand after publication of the official forecast for the Southern States, which showed better weather in the Western belt. Stop orders were uncovered on the decline to 17 1/2 for October and 17 1/2 for January, while it was reported that Southern hedge selling was in greater volume than previously.

Offerings of futures were in the afternoon on reports of distress in the belt about 100 miles northeast of Porto Rico. Prices quickly rallied 10 to 15 points from the lowest, October selling up to 17 1/2 and January to 17 1/2. The market was then quiet, with local traders that this tropical disturbance was not likely to reach the belt, however, and when the spot covering subsided prices eased off under further liquidation and Southern hedging. The market closed within 4 or 5 points of the lowest.

Detailed weather reports showing low temperatures in Arkansas, Oklahoma and north Texas led to reiterated talk of a possible early frost, but the effect on sentiment was modified by the fact that the official forecast for tonight and tomorrow.

Exports today, 14,415 bales, making 1947 so far for the season. Net exports, 37,748. U. S. port stocks, 91,588.

Futures: High. Low. Close.

STUDENTS' TRAFFIC PATROLS TO AWAIT OPENING OF SCHOOL

Board and Police Officials Decide to Delay Plan Pending Sessions.

CITED AS VALUABLE HELP FOR CHILDREN

Instruction Precedes Practical Test; Many Cities Have Adopted Plan.

High officials of the board of education and the police and traffic departments yesterday conferred in the office of Maj. Edwin B. Hesse, superintendent of police, on the advisability of introducing student traffic patrols to protect children from injury by automobiles on the way to and from public schools.

A year ago a proposal of the plan from Chicago, where it, as in other cities, has been in operation for several years, addressed the teachers of the public school system and Dr. Frank W. Ballou, superintendent of schools, appointed a committee, headed by Superintendent Principal B. W. Murch, to study applicability of the plan to the local system.

At that time the school officials consulted with the traffic and police departments of the District government and those two departments also have been studying the plan.

Awaits School Opening.

Yesterday's conference was to canvass the result of this research. It was decided to police the schools with uniformed policemen to the same extent as heretofore, until after the opening of the schools it could be determined whether the student patrols could be conveniently organized.

The plan is to have monitors appointed at each school, after all teachers and students have been instructed in the dangers of traffic and how to meet them, the monitors to act as amateur traffic policemen in guiding pupils across streams of traffic. The pupils are rotated in the position of monitors, so that the instruction is fairly general throughout the school. The traffic handling is made part of the curriculum.

Those who met in conference to discuss the plan yesterday were Superintendent Ballou, Assistant Superintendent of Schools Robert L. Haycock, Mr. Murch, Maj. Hesse, Police Inspectors William Shelby and Charles A. Evans, Director of Traffic M. O. Eldridge and Assistant Director of Traffic L. C. Moller.

Policeman Shoots Dog That Bites Two

After biting two persons, a dog said to belong to C. M. Kappen, of Forestville, Md., was shot yesterday by Policeman Grimes, of the Eleventh precinct. Those bitten by the dog were Steven Wright, 73 years old, 1215 Alabama avenue northeast, and Wilbur Young, colored, 14 years old, 3219 Staunton road northeast. Wright was treated by Dr. Morley, of 3211 Fifth street northeast, and Young was given first aid at Providence hospital.

Husband Says Wife Was Married Before

Robert E. Sutherland, of 429 I street northwest, yesterday brought suit in the District Supreme court for annulment of his marriage to Lottie May Sutherland.

Sutherland, through his attorney, T. Morris Wampler, told the court that he married the defendant February 18, 1922 upon representation by her that she was single.

September 7, last, Sutherland told the court that he discovered his wife had a husband, Ralph E. Thompson, living and from whom she has never been divorced.

STILLS AND BRANDY ARE SEIZED IN RAID

An Elaborate Liquor-Making Plant Uncovered in New York Avenue House.

Nine 50-gallon copper stills, 300 gallons of alleged peach brandy and 2,000 gallons of mash were taken by Second precinct police, led by Capt. Burlingame, in a raid yesterday on the second floor of 615 New York avenue northwest.

The equipment and apparatus was one of the most elaborate ever uncovered in Washington, police said. The place was deserted at the time of the raid and no arrests were made. The plant was first discovered yesterday morning by Policeman Lester Parks while patrolling his beat.

The driver of the truck escaped over a fence, Parks said. Following the man, Parks got a "whiff" of the boiling mash. He returned to his precinct and the raid was instituted. Police found the mash simmering over gas stove burners when they arrived, they said, and the stills hooked up in series of three. Other material seized included 1,000 pounds of sugar and boxes of prunes and dried peaches. A surprised crowd of onlookers, including the blacksmith proprietor of the shop downstairs, witnessed the raid.

AUTO WORKER DIES OF GASOLINE BURNS

Man Enveloped With Flames When Pool of Oil on Street Is Ignited.

Burned from head to foot when a pool of gasoline on the sidewalk in front of 1232 Pennsylvania avenue northwest became ignited and set fire to his clothing, Daniel Nixon, colored, 18 years old, 704 Second street northwest, died yesterday at Emergency hospital.

Nixon, employed at the Mount Vernon Auto Supply Co., was carrying a 5-gallon can of gasoline, when a match or cigarette thrown by a passerby set fire to gasoline spilled on the street. He lunged the can away as the blaze enveloped him and ran screaming from the scene before any one could extinguish the blaze.

He first ran to the kitchen of the Asia restaurant, next to the sidewalk, and then entered a soft drink establishment at 1223 Pennsylvania avenue, where Henri Papenau, the proprietor, submerged him in an ice box, putting out the flames. He was taken to Emergency hospital by the fire-rescue squad. The gasoline also set fire to a automobile owned by Oswald Bartram, 1730 Sixteenth street northwest, which was virtually destroyed.

MIDCITY MARKET SITE FAVORED IN PETITION

Farmers and Truckers Sign Plea to Capital Park and Planning Body.

A petition for location of the farmers' market in the midcity site near Convention Hall market is now being circulated among truckers and farmers doing business at the present market site, between Tenth, Twelfth, B and Little B streets, for presentation to the National Capital park and planning commission.

More than 300 signatures are reported on the petition, which probably will be presented next week and will take its place with those filed by the Rhode Island Avenue, the Midcity and Benning Citizens' associations and the Sutherland (Md.) Community Center and Tournament association.

The petition is addressed to the National Capital park and planning commission because its action on a new farmers' market site will have priority over the District commission, the public buildings commission, and Congress, in that it has to do with the District plan.

Sale of Cigarettes To Minors Banned

Maj. Edwin B. Hesse, superintendent of police, yesterday issued a general order calling attention of the department to the new law forbidding sale of cigarettes or tobacco to children under 16 years of age.

The law was passed at the last session of Congress. First and second offenses are punishable by small fines and subsequent offenses by imprisonment.

POLICE AND FIREMEN TO SHOW PROWESS IN BALL GAME TODAY

Parade of Uniformed Forces to Precede Clash of Teams at Stadium.

VIRGINIA AND MARYLAND COMPANIES TO COMPETE

Injured Private to Review Marching Comrades From Wheel-Chair on Truck.

Firemen and policemen yesterday completed arrangements to entertain the residents of the Capital today and large crowds are expected to witness the fire department parade and the baseball game between teams of firemen and policemen. The proceeds of the latter event are for the fund to provide death benefits for the widows and orphans of firemen and policemen.

The parade will move up Pennsylvania avenue northwest from the Peace monument to Fifteenth street at noon. The ball game will take place in the Griffith stadium at 2:30 p. m., preceded by a concert by the Marine band at 1:30.

Color and humor will characterize the second half of the parade, following marching battalions of uniformed firemen. Fire companies from nearby Virginia and Maryland towns will participate. Numerous prizes have been offered, as follows:

For the volunteer fire company presenting the best appearance—First prize, The Washington Post trophy; second prize, the Harris trophy.

Engine company traveling the greatest distance to enter the parade—Schwartz Co. trophy.

Company with the largest number of decorated cars in line—First prize, the Washington News trophy; second prize, the William Hahn Co. trophy.

Organization making the best showing in the parade—The Times-Herald trophy.

The best District fire department float—First prize, Evening Star trophy; second prize, Potomac Electric Power Co. trophy.

Private Car Prize. Prettiest and best-decorated private car in the procession, $50 in gold.

Most comical float—First prize, Odell Smith trophy; second prize, Albert Steinem trophy.

Moving pictures will be taken of the parade and the crowds watching it.

A special detail of firemen has been appointed to conduct Private J. E. Webb, of engine company No. 3 in a wheel chair, on an auto truck, from Emergency hospital to view the parade, back to the hospital to rest, and then to the ball park to witness the game.

Private Webb was injured March 28 when two pieces of apparatus of his engine company came into collision while responding to a fire. Both his legs were crushed and he received internal injuries. He has been an inmate of the hospital since the accident. It is reported that he will recover full use of his legs, but that his recovery will be slow.

Watson, nine battalion chiefs, colors and guards, District fire department battalion of war veterans, First battalion of District of Columbia firemen, Second battalion of District of Columbia firemen, Third battalion of District of Columbia firemen.

CONTRACT TO BE LET FOR 2 MORE STORIES TO TREASURY ANNEX

Extra Space in Loan Building Will Mean the Saving of $40,000 in Rent.

EXTENSION WILL COST $250,000 THIS YEAR

Quarters Now Occupied in the Southern Railway Building Will Be Given Up.

Contract for addition of two stories to the Liberty Loan Annex building adjoining the bureau of engraving and printing, under the local end of the government building, is among the next to be let, it was said yesterday by the public buildings commission.

This will provide extra space for the accommodation of the office of the registrar of the Treasury, which is a part of the public debt service and which now is accommodated in the Southern Railway building. These facilities will cause release of the Southern Railway Office building at D street northwest and the saving of about $40,000 a year in rentals.

Plans for the two stories for which Congress appropriated $250,000 to be expended this year are now being prepared. A sum not to exceed $375,000 was authorized by Congress in connection with this extension.

First bids will be asked on wrecking the government buildings bounded by Eleventh, Twelfth, Little B and C streets, part of the site of the internal revenue building and adjoining the farmers' market.

Activities to Be Consolidated. Arrangements to consolidate the public debt service activities of the Treasury have been discussed for several years, and it is contended that the movement now nearing fruition will not only save money in office rents, but will mean greater efficiency in operation.

The service is at present composed of three groups besides its headquarters in the Treasury building. These are the Southern Railway Office building, the Liberty Loan annex of three floors, and part of the old engraving and printing bureau.

It is contemplated to vacate the building on D street, but whether the entire force will be moved from the old engraving and printing bureau building will not be decided until the new quarters are ready.

The service is composed of four divisions: Loans and currency; registrar's office; public debt; and account, audit and division of paper custody.

Thus far no protests have been registered from chicken fanciers, but organized pigeon raisers asked for a public hearing and the commissioners granted the request. The organizations that asked to be heard were the following: American Racing Pigeon league, Aero Racing Pigeon club, Homing Pigeon organization and Washington Racing Pigeon club.
